

About North Carolina

By Anna Von Reitz

It has been very chaotic in North Carolina the last two months. Many terrible things have happened in the State and both communication and transportation have been badly impacted in many places. This has exacerbated various communication and opinion problems that already existed in The North Carolina Assembly.

Everyone is reminded that all Americans living permanently within the physical borders of the State are eligible to join the Assembly. This automatically appears to exclude Federal Employees who are temporarily adopting foreign status and are living in the State as "residents" under The Residence Act, but even they can "return" to claim their birthright identity as Dual Nationals and be counted as State Nationals, (but can not serve as State Citizens until they quit Federal Service or retire).

Everyone is reminded that these organizations are public government organizations and are not private clubs. There is nothing sacred about anyone's opinion and nobody is specially empowered to lord it over anyone else. Coordinators are not CEO's and do not exercise that kind of Executive Power. Ideally, there should be several Coordinator volunteers in every State, collaborating as a team to get the various functions of the State up and working.

North Carolina is trying to get reorganized with a Coordinator Team in place and they are trying to muddle through issues like proper elections, re-establishing connections with everyone, clearly communicating about disaster-related issues, helping each other, accounting for resources, safe storage for records and much more.

Recently a misunderstanding occurred -- an understandable misunderstanding -- and concerned members of the Assembly removed the State copy records from their normal storage. The records are safe, they are not being used for any improper purpose, and they are not being sold to anyone for any purpose. They are simply in a different storage.

The records weren't "stolen" and nobody needs to be overly concerned or upset.

We would appreciate it if everyone would kindly stop making assumptions and spreading rumors and taking improper actions.

We are here to help North Carolina get back on its feet, but it is necessary for all the Coordinators to do their jobs, and when they don't know the proper process --- ask. That's why the Summoning Authority exists.

There is a right way and a wrong way to do everything, and we owe it to each other to get it right.

Thank you.
