Lawful money just means it is backed by some actual asset or commodity. That asset or commodity can be almost anything --- but something like gold or silver or oil. Tricky Dick's Petrodollar wasn't a bad option. "Fiat money" isn't backed by anything but "good faith" --- and is credit created out of thin air and not pre-paid as our American credit is.

You are already familiar with this idea. You can have a credit card that promises to pay in the future (fiat money), you can have a pre-paid credit card, or you can have a debit card that tallies directly against an actual pre-existing account balance. These are all different forms of credit transactions. When we exercise our credit as Americans, it is already pre-paid like a pre-paid credit card, so we are not asking anyone to give us credit now that we can repay in the future, we are using credit that we have already earned.

U.S. Citizens and Municipal "citizens of the United States" don't have pre-paid credit.

The privilege (not right) to create future debt repayment arrangements requires a Guarantor --- someone has to say, well, if he dies or loses his job, I'll pick up his tab. This is what the US Congress has been doing with us--- using us as the Guarantors for the future repayment of their debts, even though they are operating in Breach of Trust by claiming that we are all some form of "US Citizen" or "citizens of the United States".

The military script issued by the Federal Reserve, for example, uses labor as its backing. Labor is an asset. All Military Personnel are in a condition of Indentured Servitude. They agree for a period of years (their Tour of Duty) to act in this capacity and knowingly or unknowingly pledge a large portion of the value of their labor to back the Promissory Notes issued by the Federal Reserve. This is so profitable that over time the Perpetrators of this system have found ways to extend these presumptions even after the actual Tour of Duty ends ---- so long as the man or woman does not issue a Severance Letter declaring their return to their birthright political status and jurisdiction, the military just assumes that you have chosen to remain in their foreign Territorial Jurisdiction and granted them the right to continue to tax you and your labor as an Indentured Servant---- "for the Greater Good" of course. This is the basis and excuse behind the attacks of the Internal Revenue Service on civilians.

A similar but even worse situation applies to members of the Federal Civil Service, who are "citizens of the United States" Municipal Government, who are considered to be slaves and Municipal PERSONS---- corporations of various kinds known as "Special Purpose Vehicles" or SPVs. This is another flight of fraudulent fancy and outrageous imposition upon us resulting in impersonating us as US (Municipal) Corporations. The "citizens of the United States" have labor assets, too, but unlike their more fortunate brothers in the military, the presumption against the value of their labor assets is permanent until they are emancipated by escaping to Territorial jurisdiction (just like the slaves in the Civil War escaping to Union Territory) where they are considered to be Dependents of the Military Government (see above) and go from slave to indentured servant.

So, you are either attacked by the Municipal IRS or attacked by the Territorial Internal Revenue Service, and your Employees have you mis-identified and trapped as the Punching Boy in the Middle, no matter what you do or which way you turn until.... you wake up and say, WTH???

I'm not in the Military. I'm not a military dependent. I am not a US CORPORATION, either.
As you can see, both these foreign systems propose to use your labor assets to fund their promissory notes, and results in de facto slavery of Federal employees and US CORPORATIONS. They just expanded the meaning of "US CORPORATIONS" to include foreign corporation franchises conveniently named after you---- without your knowing permission.

This is, in the end, all about money that uses labor as the asset backing it and paying for services. This is the means that your employees concocted to access your credit and labor assets in your purported "absence" from our shores. But now you are home again, and all your debts are pre-paid.

As the Assemblies grow and a more general understanding of this situation grows, anger will be a natural reaction. Six generations of Americans have been enslaved by their own employees. Millions upon millions of lives have been truncated and ruined.

What should have happened at the end of the Civil War was that our military should have informed us and assisted us in holding new elections and in educating the public about the situation. That would have resulted in the completion of the Reconstruction and American control of American assets.

Instead, traitors in the British-influenced military supported the creation of the Scottish Commercial Corporation doing business as "The United States of America, Incorporated" and this whole crazy foreign "boom and bust" and tail wagging the dog political system took root.

We are now slicing through these False Legal Presumptions regarding our identities and our political status and our employees are mostly so dumbed-down that they don't even recognize what is happening, but they will.

So --- I hope that helps explains basic "lawful money" and different forms of credit, and why "legal tender" --- credit instruments presented by our employees based on the value of their labor is a problem for all concerned, because the system has been abused for profit and without full disclosure to the participants, and has also been misapplied to our unwitting civilian population, too.

You are helping to correct this situation for yourselves and for your employees by what you are doing now -- declaring your proper political status and engaging in self-governance through your lawful Assemblies. The Reconstruction left hanging since the Civil War is on the horizon. The actual Federal Republic can be restored and all these things that have been done "in our names" can be settled at last.

You can also help by "redeeming" all checks as "lawful money" --- not legal tender based on labor. This is done via proper endorsement of your checks and proper structuring of your business affairs. Use your endorsement to direct the application of lawful money. Sign them--- By: Your Name, All rights reserved. Redeemed in lawful money: 12 USC411. ---Followed by the account number.

This is your right and responsibility as an American. It's part of self-governance to direct your financial and business affairs. If you are a Lawful Person, you are owed and should be using Lawful Money. You do this by "denominating" the funds in your accounts as lawful money, even if actual lawful money --- coin and commodity based certificates --- are not widely available at this time.
