

Addendum to Don't Blink --- ChemTrails May Be Gone

By Anna Von Reitz

Here you go:

<https://x.com/RealDrJaneRuby/status/1887903405554688004>

In yesterday's publication, "Don't Blink -- Chemtrails May Be Gone", we gave a brief recitation of the history, content, and funding support for Chemtrails through private Vatican sources initially, and later via Non-Government Organizations (NGOs) funded by government agencies, like USAID.

In effect, this is derived from public sources, funneled through private organizations to give the appearance of private funding --- a form of money laundering that kicks back a portion of all program funds and receipts as well as obscuring the actual source of the initiative or funding.

This particular money chain from USAID to NGOs requires appropriations from Congress, so the hunt has been on to identify Congressional appropriations and agency programs responsible for Chemtrails.

Here's at least one such connection in which the stated purpose of the Congressionally supported Chemtrail activity was to experiment with high altitude particle dispersion similar to cloud-seeding, for the purpose of deflecting natural sunlight and artificially cooling the Earth's surface:

<https://x.com/RealDrJaneRuby/status/1887903405554688004>

This does not imply that all such Chemtrail initiatives have been aimed at the same results or were motivated by similar concerns; some Chemtrails have very definitely promoted widespread dispersal of incendiary materials that have been used to artificially accelerate explosive ground fires, for example, and do not appear to have any other known purpose.

Keep your eyes open, Campers, for additional government sponsored appropriations for these activities both in this country and abroad --- especially England, Italy, the Vatican, Israel, Saudi Arabia, Belgium and the Netherlands.

As we look, we will find --- and as we do, a larger picture of the purposes and goals of these willful acts of environmental pollution and their supporters will emerge. Like every other inquiry into government malfeasance and misconduct, and also into harmful and politicized scientific activities, it takes time to unravel the whole story from multiple perspectives. Be patient.

It took decades for people to notice the Chemtrails and become alarmed by these unnatural "clouds" in the sky, decades more of deriding and denigrating those who asked questions and collected evidence --- and all the while, these harmful experiments with commercial gain overtones were being deployed, poisoning our food and water, endangering life on this planet, and recklessly harming at least three generations of humanity.

The inappropriate misuse of "science" and scientific inquiry as an excuse for abuse of domestic populations of people and animals under the United Nations ENMOD "Treaties" and similar corporate government agreements must come to an end.

Similarly, the abuse of military personnel as "lab rats" which has been facilitated by trafficking members of the military into the foreign jurisdiction of the sea and changing their inherent political status without their knowledge or permission must come to an abrupt halt.

In addition to the apparent crimes of environmental pollution and harmful manipulation of the environment --- amounting to the commercial weaponization of the environment for purposes of unlawful commercial conflicts --- these activities and other activities of the so-called Corporate Governments, including the outrageous Pandemic, have required crimes of unlawful political conversion, entrapment, enslavement, misrepresentation, fraud, racketeering, inland piracy, press-ganging, and always, False Claims in Commerce.

The United States Patent and Trademark Office is fundamentally responsible for many of these illegal and unlawful acts and presumptions, as it has habitually allowed the issuance of patents related to illegal activities in the name of "National Security".

The bulk of the Chemtrail funding may have finally been cut off by defunding USAID, but we must address the underlying causes and errors that are systemic.

How do we keep politicized science, that is, "Scientism" from hijacking the realm and role of actual science?

How do we keep corporate self-interest out of the public purse?

What sort of "moral rebuild" is required to keep public servants serving in good faith, instead of betraying the interests of the public and misusing the resources of the public for their own personal benefit?

The bankruptcy of the UNITED STATES Corporation has forced us all to confront the reality of the grotesque mismanagement and enormous malfeasance promoted by those incorporated organizations which have masqueraded as "our" governments.

While in fact causing widespread poverty, ignorance, and criminality, these same organizations have blamed the results of their own venal activities on racism, social discrimination, "human caused global warming" and even over-population.

If even one-tenth of the funding already discovered as waste and abuse and criminality had been redirected toward good and practical uses, we'd already be living in a different world.

We must wake up and take action, and there is no better action to take, than to accept the challenge of divesting ourselves of the False Indoctrination that we have been brought up in, and embracing the hurly-burly of American self-governance, instead.

Go to: TheAmericanStatesAssembly.net

See this article and over 5200 others on Anna's website here: www.annavonreitz.com

To support this work look for the Donate button on this website.