

Christians Who Hate

By Anna Von Reitz

I have received a lot of backlash from my article explaining that "Christian" Kings hired Jews to practice usury against Christians to make a buck. Even faced with the present government and its activities, there are some who want to argue the point and can't believe that their kings and queens would do any such nasty, dishonorable, small-minded, money-grubbing thing----even though these are the ancestors of the same people who have stolen your identity, transformed "you" into a commodity to be traded like pounds of butter, and taken the profit of it for themselves.

Anyone who looks into the history of usury for the past thousand years will have no trouble unearthing the unsavory facts about both the Church and the State gleefully employing and yes, coercing Jews, to commit usury against Christians for profit.

There have also been numerous people on my website and sending me emails making hate-filled statements against Muslims and the Koran.

I have friends who are linguists. My own Aunt was a linguist who spoke seven languages fluently and wrote five of them just as fluently. The linguists among us long ago noted a very curious thing. The same thing that went on with the Roman Catholic Church and the use of Latin so that average people couldn't read the Bible for themselves, has gone on with the language of the Prophet and the Koran.

Most Muslims are not able to read what the Prophet actually wrote because they are not taught to read, and among those who do read a very, very few can actually read the language of the Prophet. Thus, they rely on hearsay from their Holy Men, most of whom can't read the actual words of the Prophet, either. So the blind lead the blind.

Instead, everyone relies on word-of-mouth translations learned by rote. Anyone who has ever played the game "Telephone" knows what to expect, even when people try their best to remember everything and keep it exact. Their own thoughts, ignorance, emotion, and assumptions color their transmission.

It turns out that when the Prophet's words are read in his language, they often say something different or even the exact opposite, of what is being taught in the mosques. His actual words have been corrupted. Profaned. Betrayed. Misunderstood. Lied about. Politicized. And the people --- even the religious teachers --- are kept so ignorant they don't know and can't correct their errors.

Is this beginning to sound familiar?

The Satanists have done the same thing to the Muslims as they did to the Christians, and have given us all another oxymoron---- holy war--- to contemplate.

Hello? You think this is coincidence?

The actual words of the Prophet are gentle and kind, not at all the hate-filled rantings you hear coming out of the mouths of those who claim to "represent" him.

So there's another clue for you as to what is going on here and who is behind it.

Where else have you seen this kind of substitution go on? Substitution of "things"--- corporate franchises--- for living men? Substitution for actual shareholders by "undeclared foreign agents" claiming to "represent" them? Substitution of "civil rights" or "human rights" for "natural and unalienable rights"? Substitution of State Citizenship for State of Citizenship?

Even the word "trust" is a twisted abomination, meaning one thing in popular English vernacular, and having a completely different meaning in the original language. The root word "trucido" in Latin means to kill, to slaughter mercilessly, murder.

The Muslims are being tricked with half-truths and sly, politically motivated interpretations of the Prophet's words the same way that we Christians have been duped and kept ignorant and led around by our noses and deceived by people we trusted.

The Satanic Perps are even doing it the same way, using the same tools, the same old time-worn methods---- dumb the victims down and keep them ignorant, divide them according to race or religion or any other difference, feed them all sorts of lies and scare them silly, weigh them down with superstitions and rules that God never gave to Man....

It's all the same old crap.

The Muslims are just a little bit behind the curve and are going through what we have already experienced. That being true, we should be able to recognize it when someone else is being manipulated the same way we were. And we shouldn't blame the victims. We should blame the Satanists that have infiltrated Islam just as they have infiltrated Christianity and Judaism, to the same vile ends, for the same ugly purposes, and even using the same means, the same lies, and the same fears.

We, the living people, are in a spiritual war. Our battle commander is the Holy Spirit. Our weapons in this "war" are discernment, courage, humility, gratitude, generosity, mercy, love, faith, truth, justice, and peace. It is only with these weapons that any of us can win.

Christians should know this, should teach it, and should be prepared for the assault --- but on all sides I hear professing Christians spewing hate and flooding the airwaves with fear. Did Yeshuah allow hate and fear to overcome Him? Is that what He taught us? Really? Just roll over and wallow in it?

Do you all think that the command to "love your enemy" was a typographical error?

I began my life as a mathematician. Here is a simple little set of equations I want you to observe, knowing that they are part of the fabric and foundation of the Universe we are all part of and live in:

$$-7 + -7 = -14$$

This means that if you add negative things to negative things all you get are bigger more dangerous and uglier negative things.

$$+7 + -7 = 0$$

This means that if you add positive things to negative things in equal measure, they cancel each other out and there is no net change.

$$7 + 7 = 14$$

This means that if you add positive things to positive things you build up a whole full measure of positive things that yield more positive results.

Okay, folks? You won't believe Yeshuah? You won't believe me? How about you believe the simple mathematics in front of your face?

When you return evil for evil, all you do is create a bigger mound of evil.

When you return good for evil, you cancel it out.

When you return good for good, you create Heaven on Earth.

If we want to win the spiritual war that threatens all Mankind, we must defeat evil by eradicating it from our own hearts and minds and replacing it with good. Yes, as a very practical matter, we have to return good for evil and encourage others to do the same by our example.

This is especially important for those who call themselves "Christians".

Much has been given to you and for you, and much is expected of you in return. You can't claim ignorance. You know the math.

Every time I hear a "Christian" blaming and whining and gossiping and being petty and ignorant and fearful and talking hatefully about other people, I cringe.

I am not some namby-pamby Ivory Tower kind of woman. I shoveled cow manure as a child. I know what hard physical work is. I know what poverty is, and sickness, and misery and loss. I guess you can tell that I have a temper and can get angry enough to speak my mind.

So it isn't because I am so sensitive and delicate that I can't bear to hear a swear word or so nice that I have unrealistic expectations---but when you call yourself a "Christian" you owe a debt to someone very special. So either try your best to live up to it, please, or admit that you are not a Christian. You just say you are.
