

The civil war proof of peace

By Anna Von Reitz

A Christmas Claim

It has been said that peace was established at Appomattox, Virginia, based on the fact that Lee rode away with his sword and sidearm.

Is this true?

Not really. What happened between Grant and Lee was an Armistice— not a Peace Treaty process or anything like it.

A real Peace Treaty was not possible because the conflict itself was commercial in nature, and so, was basically illegal and outside the norms that govern peace processes.

Andrew Johnson attempted to fix this by proclaiming "peace on the land" on three different public occasions, and thereby forming a contract for peace.

When the Scottish Commercial Corporation calling itself The United States of America, Incorporated, failed in 1907, it caused another commercial conflagration we know as World War I.

Years later, when another foreign corporation calling itself "the United States of America, Incorporated" went bankrupt, another commercial "war" erupted — World War II.

Now, both the United States, Inc., and the USA, Inc., have gone bankrupt, and the expectation of the Perpetrators of all this war profiteering has clearly been to start yet a third commercial conflict — World War III, which would fill their coffers and bankrupt everyone else — again.

This time, we saw it coming.

This time, we denied them bankruptcy protection.

This time, we said —"No!" And we called them out for what they have been doing. We started arresting the Perps. We woke up.

Even though they tried to engender civil unrest and reignite old racial prejudices under Obama, it didn't work. Their October Surprise in Gaza has only resulted in genocide and clearly identified the aggressors. The "secret war" in Syria is revealing the dirty hands and role of the Roman Catholic Church. The Commercial Conflict in Ukraine— we all know it would not exist, except for the 2014 massacre of the elected Ukrainian Government by operatives of Black Rock, the CiA and MI 6.

In a way, no matter what the Perps say or do, it's already over, because people worldwide know the truth about these filthy commercial interests and what they have promoted "in the name of" many nations, unfortunately, including our own.

It's time, in our opinion, to outlaw corporations.

Their lack of accountability and the veil of bankruptcy protection at public expense has only led to great criminality and corruption.

The world survived in relative peace for centuries before the advent of incorporated entities and rigged stock exchanges.

Sometimes progress isn't progress. Sometimes we need to go back and correct our mistakes. And hold people and organizations accountable for their misdeeds.

Even without an obvious and overt "World War III", over 31 million "excess deaths" have already occurred as a direct result of illegal corporate profiteering on the part of the for-profit Health Sector industry.

Countless people will never be born and others never know the joy of children because these monsters have polluted the human genome.

World War III wasn't happening in time to save the bottom lines of the "defense" contractors, so they created another way to open up another kind of "war" veiled in deceit— and found a way to make money by killing millions of people anyway.

If we want peace on Earth we have to stop spending money on war— and by that we mean any kind of war.

The "leaders" we have been trusting and following to our detriment, shame, and demise aren't worth spitting on. The criminals wasting our assets and spending our credit are what they are.

What is needed, finally, and for all the years since Lee rode away with his sword, is a firm understanding of what happened then and what is happening now, and what all of us need to do to put an end to it.

Merry Christmas, everyone. If we work hard and keep our attention focused, we can have peace on Earth by this time next year. For now, think of peace, dream of peace, and dwell in peace in your hearts and minds.
