

They Don't Like It

By Anna Von Reitz

The Big Shots. The Brass. The High Ranking Officers left in charge of this country by an imposter, Lincoln, who was working for the then-British Queen, Victoria, don't like to take orders from a woman.

Too bad they didn't voice their opinions back then.

Come to that, what do they think they have been doing since 1953?

Not only have they taking their orders from a woman, they've been taking their orders from the wrong woman.

Isn't that just Absolutely Fabulous?

How many tens of thousands of our young men have died obeying the illegal orders of British Usurpers since 1860?

Don't know about the rest of you, but I want an accounting from the War Department / Department of Defense.

I want a head count of every American soldier who has died on active duty since 1860. Then I want a head count of those who died while in the Reserves.

I think the numbers will speak for themselves.

Those are our sons and daughters, our husbands, fathers, uncles, wives, mothers, aunts, and cousins—— all of them lost.

Their lives have been wasted by men operating in treason against this country and against the actual American Government and they want me to take it as a joke.

A gee, whoops, Ma, I forgot? Couldn't tell the difference between you and the British Queen?

They don't like to be scolded. They are hurt and insulted by my criticism, but then, they don't see the world from the perspective of a Great-Grandma.

They don't count the actual cost. I do.

When we discovered that our "honorable soldiers" were selling themselves as cheap mercenaries, it had the same impact as telling me that my daughter is a Hooker.

If you don't count the undeclared military confiscations, the illegal taxation, the pillaging, plundering, and racketeering your country has suffered at your own hands, it's all good.

If you don't count the graft, fraud, and debauchery, and pay no attention to the military courts misaddressing civilians, then we are all A-Okay here.

I guess the theory is that our military kept us safe from the Other Guys doing the same criminal and evil things to us?

A familiar rapist is better than an unknown thug?

If you don't count the armed robbery of your own employers and families and ignore the gross disrespect of your own oath, it's all fine and dandy.

If you don't count the innocent people going "to serve their country" and serving Monsters instead, if you don't count our babies being sold and betrayed in their cradles, if you don't count the innocent Mothers swindled into signing their children into slavery unaware, then everything is right as roses and our military has performed brilliantly.

If you don't count the censoring of our once free press and the press-ganging of our youth and the enslavement of our economy and the constant lies being engineered to control every aspect of public opinion, if you don't count all the rights turned into privileges, then we are all doing just fine.

If you don't count actual ballots and don't allow proper tallying of votes and don't count the popular votes in a Presidential Election anyway—who cares? There is always some uninformed fool ready to sit in the chair.

The plain fact is that the military has been in charge of this country—illegally and under conditions of fraud—since 1863.

Stand up and take a bow.

If I were the Top Brass I'd be thankful to only be blamed for part of it. And I'd take my orders from an American.
