

The Roman Catholic Church For Catholics --- and Everyone Else

By Anna Von Reitz

Last night on my Monday Night Webinar, I brought up the fact that the Church is holding its Synod meetings and so, rank and file Catholics need to make sure they attend and weigh in --- and not be part of the Silent Majority anymore, because the Church like any Government, gets assailed by Special Interests and blown off course without strong input from the majority stakeholders.

This, in turn, has unleashed a firestorm of questions, as apparently, the majority of Catholics are unaware that their Church is a Government --- literally, a theocracy.

Well, only for the past 1700 years, give or take a few....

Let's start at the beginning. It became the ROMAN Catholic Church when the early Church Fathers formed a partnership with the Roman Emperor, Constantine. The details of the merger deal were private, but from subsequent history we can determine that: (1) the church from that time on was split --- with the Roman interests running the business side of things as a theocracy, and (2) the Christian Church serving as a storefront.

We can further determine from historical and archaeological records that the Romans involved in running the theocracy (government) part of the operation were devotees of Mithras, a pre-Christian sun god touted as the "Son of God" --- and much more recently, the leadership of the "secular Church" government converted to Luciferianism.

I deduce this conversion of the Roman theocracy to Luciferianism occurred during the Belle Epoque Era of the 1880's and 90's and was attached to the Hermetic Order of the Golden Dawn---but no matter when it started, it went public with the Second Vatican Council in 1962 under Pope John XXIII and has continued ever since.

Although the original Hermetic Order of the Golden Dawn dissolved in 1903 amid money and sexual perversion scandals, its successors continue on today --- most especially, Alpha et Omega, which you will see prominently displayed as the name of one of the great financial trusts.

So, there have been two sides to the Roman Catholic Church ever since the Council of Nicea --- a secular government styled as a theocracy (and not saying which kind of religion it practiced) overseen by Roman interests and a church focused on promoting good works and doctrine.

This internal bilateral split in functions and faiths culminated in the Pope having to occupy at least two offices and serve two Masters --- the Sacred Office of His Holiness, the Pope, and the secular office as the head of the Roman Pontificate. As long as this has gone on under our noses, it shouldn't be a surprise to anyone, much less to Catholics, but I have had hundreds of Catholics writing and calling and saying, "Say what? My Church is a Government?"

Yes.

And like any other government, it gets involved in politics, money, banking, trade wars, property management, espionage, military actions, taxes, you name it. If governments do it, the Roman Catholic Church does it, and has done it a lot longer than most governments on Earth.

I already pointed out that the "Federal Income Tax" got its start in the 1100's when the Church established Peter's Pence, a once-a-year special offering due on April 15th, collected by the Inquisition, based on yearly income, to help pay the expense of supporting the Crusades --- war debts, in other words. That's still the form and function of this tax.

Now, also given this basic information about the form and function of the Roman Catholic Church both as a Roman theocracy (government) and as a church (religious institution) you are better prepared to analyze what happened in the American Civil War and how all that impacts us today.

The Roman theocracy side of the Church operating the Municipal United States Government sided with the Southern Confederacy in the Civil War. They lost. Municipal employees and all Catholics were on the hook to pay war reparations as "citizens of the United States" and were among the chief victims of the infamous Territorial Fourteenth Amendment --- which, by the way, was never ratified by the actual States.

This meant that all Catholics and Municipal Employees and Dependents (freed black plantation slaves were dumped onto this list as Dependents to spread the joy) were stuck paying off war reparations, and being a "citizen of the United States" became a Third Class political status nobody wanted, because it meant your property could be confiscated, you could be arbitrarily jailed, and your labor could be taxed.

As long as the phony "civil war" continued, this would continue to be the case. This is why all the Territorial "Presidents" have declared "wars" on various things every two years ever since --- wars on drugs, wars on poverty, wars on the common cold --- so long as they could claim that a war was going, they could continue to hold the Catholics and Municipal citizenry responsible.

During the First World War, they were all arbitrarily declared to be "the Enemy", and the rats got away with this, by claiming that the American Civil War had never been ended.

During the Great Depression, Franklin Delano Roosevelt contrived to entrap millions of Americans into this Third Class political status so that there were more "Debtors by Definition" to tax.

During the Second World War, FDR then used this entrapment and "redefinition" of Americans as Municipal citizenry to pass otherwise illegal conscription laws (the draft) and seized upon both the assets and the labor of millions of entrapped and misidentified Americans to promote the war effort.

The Roman theocracy went along with this, even though it knew that the new war was going to result in astronomical war debts that would be heaped on American Catholics, Negroes, Municipal Employees and their Dependents.

They didn't care, because by that time, the Roman theocracy was worshiping Mammon and in bed with military contractors and major industrialists on both sides of the war, and they were making out like bandits.

For the rest of us, it is a classic object lesson.

By allowing an evil (slavery) to continue to exist, and by continuing to allow the criminalization and enslavement of the Municipal citizenry as a Third Class subset of the General Public, virtually everyone else was eventually redefined as a Municipal citizen and victimized, too.

It behooves everyone to pause a moment and think: well, so we allowed our Catholic neighbors to be enslaved, and that has resulted in blue-blood Protestants being enslaved, too. And this has happened, even though slavery was supposedly abolished in 1865, and again, worldwide, in 1926.

What in the name of the True God is going on here? We all know that slavery and peonage are unjust and evil. We've repeatedly said so. We've fought a huge war over it in this country. We've passed laws in both national and international venues forbidding it. Why isn't it gone? Why isn't it in the realm of the Dodo Bird and Whale Oil and Rotary Phones?

Pure old avarice and fraud. Slavery is incredibly lucrative business and those who profited the most from slavery included Rome, and later, the Roman Catholic Church. Of course, they recast it as "slavery to Christ" -- but slavery nonetheless.

The Roman theocracy presumes that every confirmed Catholic is in fact a slave bound for life, obligated to pay all debts of its government and the tag-along church, required to obey its leadership without question. It also presumes that any property belonging to a Catholic, mind, body, soul, home, land, business -- belongs to the Pope. Literally.

This is why they fought on the side of the Southern Confederacy. They make the bulk of their money from enslavement. This, more than anything else, is apocalyptic --- a great drawing back of the curtain --- allowing everyone to see the hypocrisy of the pagan uber-wealthy Roman slave owners juxtaposed against the endlessly poor-mouthing Christian Church being used as their storefront.

Now that you all know how they have seized upon your Family Name and converted it into the title of a non-existent British Territorial Citizen, and then sold that Citizen under bondage to the Pope---- who then creates Municipal CORPORATIONS named after you, too, you can begin see how they have conspired to keep slavery alive and well in the 21st century.

They can't enslave you, that was outlawed in 1865. They can't enslave a British Territorial U.S. Citizen; that was outlawed in 1926. But they can enslave a corporation. Heck, they can murder a corporation, rape a corporation, do whatever they like to a corporation. And that is why they impersonate you as a corporation. And that is why they misaddress you as a corporation. And that is why they have the "Diversity Clause" in the Federal Code, allowing a corporation to be defined as a "citizen of the United States" -- liable to pay their debts.
