

Saint Germain Made Manifest

By Anna Von Reitz

Last night as we were collecting our energy and placing our attention on Hurricane Milton, the storm which began as a Category 5 Storm, was slowed to a Category 3 storm, and finally, to a Tropical Storm.

A miracle happened in Florida last night.

The authorities know it. They can't explain it. While storms of this kind tend to weaken somewhat as they reach landfall, they don't weaken this quickly and to this extent.

Another point worth noting is that Hurricanes in the Northern Hemisphere are supposed to rotate clockwise, not counter-clockwise, like Hurricane Milton ---- another anomaly that underscores the unnatural, man-made nature of the storm.

But something else was at work as the storm bore down on the helpless Florida Peninsula: love, peace, mindfulness, and power weighed in.

Those who have studied the teachings of Saint Germain will be familiar with the Violet Flame.

This is part of what Floridians saw in the sky last night.
