

Just When You Thought.... Things Couldn't Get Any Worse

By Anna Von Reitz

As bloated, mercenary, corrupt and often evil as our government is, take in the view from the shores of England:

<https://citizenwatchreport.com/uk-pays-wind-farms-1-3-billion-to-shut-down-when-its-windy/>

First they give the public's money away to build wind farms, then, they pay their cronies not to produce electricity. Just like they pay farmers not to produce food.

Then follow up with this, our own people having to bear the brunt of collecting soil samples in the Hurricane Helene Disaster Area and pay for independent laboratory analysis to determine just HOW polluted their land and water are, and by what pollutants?

The results? Unimaginable environmental contamination and decades of remediation to come before entire river drainages and adjoining lands are safe to live on and grow food again.

We finally know what the cloying, sweet, nauseating "strange smell" is: gaseous hydrogen sulfide.

70% of the soil in many locations is officially dead, so polluted that the soil cannot support life.

Barium, Strontium, Chromium, Lead, Mercury, Radium 226 and Radium 228, plus over 150 man-made chemical pollutants.

The numbers are over the moon for heavy metals, radioactive isotopes, and noxious gases and these samples were taken weeks after the main storm damage. So the sources of the pollution, which are yet to be determined, are still active and still pouring into the aquifers.

The official "news story" is that only around 200 people died, when thousands of Americans perished and entire towns disappeared.

If the Mainstream Media in this country was worth spit, don't you think all this would be reported on? Billions of dollars of property damage? Long term, widespread environmental contamination disaster impacting multiple States? Hundreds of thousands of people and ecosystems at risk? Thousands dead? Unidentifiable and still unidentified black helicopters with LIDAR capability flying slowing up and down the water courses after dark?

These birds were observed by thousands of people, touching down and recovering something off the ground. What? Transmitters that guided the path of the storm? Military? National Guard? Black Rock?

Why is anyone wasting their time and money listening to CBS, CNN, NBC --- any of them?

People must enjoy listening to the voice-over actors trying to rush through the long, long list of side-effects for every patent medicine these criminals are pushing.

Mike Thompson, Speaker of the U.S. House, instead of immediately reallocating funds for North Carolina and Tennessee, did nothing. He sat on both thumbs--- and now, people in the higher elevations of these States are facing freezing temperatures without help.

What the floods didn't ruin, the pollution is ruining. And the victims are left hanging.

So who is responsible for the pollution we are seeing and recording? Where's the EPA when you need them?

January is coming, but that's a long month of cold nights away. What can you do right now? Contact Samaritan's Purse or Salvation Army, two of the reliable service organizations that are still on the ground. If you are an ASN or ASC in another State, contact members of The North Carolina Assembly. Network, network, network!

Americans can write to their employees in the U.S. Congress and to Governor Cooper and ask the hard questions. Might as well write to Donald Trump as well. We don't vote for them, but we employ them. So give them hell.

They have illegally latched onto our assets under false pretenses. Time for them to start obeying the Law of the Land and Contract Law and the stipulations of their service contracts.

Time they start hearing the voices of all the purported "donors" of the public trusts.

There's a young girl tonight in West Virginia, living with her Grandmother, who is my age and doesn't know her very well. Both the girl's parents are dead, swept away in the flood. Her home is gone, too. By a miracle, the family dog survived and is her only comfort now. She doesn't talk much. Or smile.

The rest of her life will be scarred by this. Her life and her opportunities will be very different now. Her sense of security, her trust in love, will never be the same. Her Grandmother tries, but the numbers don't lie. For the moment, she's safe. If she's lucky, her Grandma will live another ten years, and she will be able to grow up and find her feet.

Then, she will be like another girl from West Virginia that I know, who has no close family of her own. She's all grown up now. Lives alone with her dog. And she is missing her adopted family in Alaska.

What we can do is always the same. We can love. We can reach out. We can think. We can act. We can give the Salvation Army a donation for Tennessee or any of the other States. We can send extra winter coats to our State Assembly in North Carolina. We can pray. We can remember and we can care.

And we can hold the politicians' feet first to the fire--- as their employers.
