

While On Mop and Bucket Duty....

By Anna Von Reitz

The information we just shared out about the whole January 6th Set Up is the sort of educational recap we have to do to glean the "value" out of the experience and make people think -- and remember -- so that nobody has to suffer the same sorts of miseries again.

The only time that Americans should go to Washington, DC from now on, is to Roto Rooter it out, pressure wash it, and evict the thieves.

After Saladin captured Jerusalem, he had the whole city washed clean and strewn with rose petals. It's about time for that again.

Already today we detailed why these political party elections that are gobbling up everyone's attention are fraudulent, and why we don't participate in them.

It's not because we are Luddites. It's not because we are protesting anything. We simply recognize the fraud and the fact that these elections are a queer mixture of useless effort and entrapment.

The popular vote doesn't actually count. The Electors of the Electoral College cast the only votes that matter. The rest of us are, unknowingly, participating in a straw poll.

That would be harmless enough, but additionally, the price for voting in this toothless popularity poll is identifying yourself as a franchisee, obligated to pay the debts racked up by the parent corporation and to obey the policies of these foreign corporations as if they were law.

In case anyone failed to get the point, here's more reasons why you can be sure that these elections are fraudulent---- literally:
