

The Music of the Spheres

By Anna Von Reitz

Mathematics is a Geek Pursuit by all accounts and "comforting" is the last word associated with it; still, I am telling the truth, it comforts me.

This fact begs the question of, "Why?"

As a young person, I couldn't formulate an answer, so I stopped trying. Now, in the autumn of my life, I think I am ready to try with some brilliant assistance from a Youtube video: "What is Going On Here? This is Mind Blowing!"

This brief little video summarizes a lifetime of wisdom and intellectual pursuit, and opens up a hidden realm of contemplation that will comfort you, too. It discloses the Sumerian and Mayan mathematics that in turn reveal the harmony of life and the mathematical underpinnings of it all.

One of the most harmful things the Rockefeller Cabal did was to change the Tuning Standard of the musical scale from 432 to 442 frequency -- an act that not only flew in the face of Nature, but has grated on all our nerves at a subliminal level for decades.

Rock and Roll isn't evil so much as it is off-key.

The same thing can be said for all modern music tuned to this unnatural scale. It excites and jangles our nerves in the same way that a fire alarm does, releases adrenaline, which we are naturally addicted to, and sells more records.

Was there a more sinister reason for changing the Tuning Standard? I would argue yes, and the rest of the evidence would support me in that. It undermines our health.

Chronic adrenaline stimulation has direct chemical consequences for our mental and physical health, and our addiction to it results in "thrill seeking behavior", as we unconsciously crave the high that adrenaline gives us.

We find ourselves quarreling with family and friends to get the stimulant we crave. We find ourselves unable to sleep. We find ourselves watching war movies and crime movies and horror movies in an effort to get that unconscious craving satisfied. We climb walls and mountains we shouldn't climb.

My Mother was an adrenaline junkie. It's not pretty. She wasn't aware of what she was doing to herself or why she was doing it, but she was in a constant state of self-induced fear and anger --- and all her relationships were corroded by this.

I speak up as her daughter so that more people become aware of this silent addiction and how it is most likely preying upon you, too.

We can fight back by insisting that the Tuning Standard be returned to a 432 scale and by listening to music known as "Wholetone" Music that is tuned to this traditional scale. Wholetone music promotes health because it speaks the language of nature. It comforts us and heals us.

Take a few minutes and listen to the video referenced above. In its understated way, it reveals the Secret of the Ages and the Music of the Spheres --- and it will comfort you and give you faith.
