

Comment on Biowarfare Attack and Status on My Trip to the Hague

By Anna Von Reitz

Although the International Court of Justice has summoned us to appear, I can't go just yet for two reasons.

On August 30th, two days before Jim died, the Vermin stole my purse from my car and my passport and other documents with it. The Dutch Government won't allow me to enter their country without it. I am stuck, waiting. Meanwhile other team members are on their way.,

The other reason is that I am rated as a High Risk Security Interest, and a competent Security Team couldn't be whisked up with six hours notice.

Diplomatic efforts are now underway to bust through the various roadblocks, but it doesn't matter, because we have already won.

Meantime, we will get our security team together and make ready.

I will be staying in Alaska under duress from "the US Government" and continuing to move on the removal of the tax issues.

As this is an inheritance issue, there is no statute of limitations.

And maybe the Security Experts are right. Edward Snowden purportedly issued a blurb today describing how the Vermin attempted to target the bloodlines of patriots from the Revolutionary War Era, seeking to eradicate us from the face of the Earth.

We will satisfy ourselves with the destruction of their entire world-spanning criminal cartel.

Granna

See this article and over 5500 others on Anna's website here: www.annavonreitz.com
To support this work look for the Donate button on this website.