

Dear Nathan....

By Anna Von Reitz

You are welcome to your opinions, Nathan, and I am welcome to both my opinions and the Public Law.

I have nothing against immigration nor against immigrants; in fact, I have enabled thousands of people who have lived in this country illegally for decades to come out of the closet and not only have the right to be here, but enjoy the full spectrum of rights and guarantees owed to every American. Anyone who can show that they have lived here for seven years or more without committing a felony or taking public assistance is allowed to stay and claim the full and unencumbered status of a State National like everyone else. Our State Assemblies have already welcomed many of these long term immigrants home to their earned naturalization status.

On the subject of rights and guarantees --- not every country in the world has a government founded on the principles of freedom and the contractual basis to support that. In most countries, a person is saddled with citizenship obligations and loss of autonomy and privacy and private property rights from birth. This difference is what makes the American Government so different and the reason that so many people want to live here, however, as my research has shown, most Americans and all immigrants have been denied their proper political status and have been unable to exercise their Constitutional Guarantees for decades.

We are only now digging out from under the criminal constructive fraud and unlawful conversion scheme that was foisted off on us by our erstwhile public employees.

Many of the immigrants who came here in the recent wave were enticed to come here --- literally paid to come here --- and came with the typical idea that America is a Land of Freedom, Milk, and Honey. Only to find out that we aren't free and things are super expensive and the government is nasty and the people are mostly confused and unfriendly toward them. Another cold winter is closing in and the Biden Administration which was part of this fiasco has left many of them to freeze. A free ticket back home is not a bad thing for most of them, especially when you consider that we are preparing to make conditions in their home countries vastly improved.

This isn't going to be done by giving money to corrupt colluding commercial corporations exercising mercenary armies to maintain political strangleholds. This is going to be done directly for the people themselves and for their community governments.

The only thing that is unusual about this present scenario is the massive number of people who find themselves marooned and struggling here. See attached visual aid which is dated. If you total it up now, nearly 15 million illegal immigrants have crossed our borders and been dispersed like refugees to every State in the Union.

More than half a million of the immigrants are undocumented children, who appear to have been trafficked as "merchandise" through Non-Government Organizations (NGO's) with little or no oversight. They came across our borders with a telephone number written on them, and the NGO's just called the number and let whoever showed up take charge of them. The possible abuses rife in this process are apparent and we have yet to get any kind of handle on this travesty of trust which was only made possible by Biden's crazy "open borders policy".

In case you are confused, private corporate policy doesn't outrank public law; it only appeared to, thanks to long-standing public ignorance.

There are people who are literally targeted for their ethnic, religious, racial, or political identity -- and they have a legitimate threat of persecution hanging over their heads if they return to their country of origin. This is why we offer political asylum and why their situation is different from those who came here on a "free vacation" offered by George Soros.

To make matters worse, we have since discovered that apart from seeking to skew U.S. Elections and placing additional stress on public assistance programs that other people paid for, the feckless Democrats had an ulterior financial motive to entice and entrap all these people to come here. The bulk of these immigrants are unaware that their own dear governments have placed ownership claims against them and their property assets, so that they have a "per head value" just like cattle. They don't know that when they innocently cross our border, their "per head value" goes up exponentially.

For example, an average Honduran "citizen" might be worth $100,000.00 but an average US "citizen" is worth $300,000,000.00. The difference can be captured by both colluding governments --- the Honduran Government can in effect, "sell" its citizens and get a kickback from the US Government that is nowhere near the full price of an American citizen, but still a lot more than what their Honduran citizens are worth normally "on the hoof", and the US Government gets credit for a "new" American citizen. Thus both governments are enriched and the immigrant is none the wiser.

With these kinds of games going on in the background and the people just being moved around like cattle to capture this unjust enrichment by criminal commercial corporations masquerading as our respective governments, it isn't about "opportunity" or "freedom" --- it's about being used like livestock and then being left to fend for themselves.

The "value" of these immigrants has been "extracted" and they and the American Public have been fleeced. Even the members of the U.S. Senate seem completely clueless and ignorant.

See the current Senate Hearings on the Cost of Deportation: <https://youtu.be/-JWw6dYIPE?si=N7Duuw2oQD0cqyY>

If you listen to the exchanges between Senator Josh Hawley from Missouri and his Democratic contemporaries, you will hear them arguing about criminals coming into our country and committing crimes here, you will hear about illegal immigrants competing for American jobs in construction and retail sales, you will hear arguments about lagging minimum wages and depleting the public assistance programs, Social Security, and other resources.

Nobody ever touches upon the real elephants in the room: obscene commercial ownership claims applied to living people, manipulation and embezzlement of our public trusts--- which, by the way, were fraudulently constructed and never authorized by us in the first place. We are merely presumed to be Federal Dual Citizens and merely presumed to be the voluntary donors of these trusts.

The issue of why these immigrants have been enticed to come here and how they have been commercially exploited, pales when you realize that each and every one of these immigrants have been "vaccinated", and that most of them will die within seven years of their arrival here. Not only have they been enticed and lured to come here, not only have they unknowingly been used to work a complex fraud scheme against public trust interests owed to Americans, but they have been forced to drink the Kool-Aid as they crossed the border.

That has huge consequences for them and for all of us.
