

Nothing for Something

By Anna Von Reitz

This past week, a mild-mannered Physicist, long-tenured at the University of Edinburgh, died at the age of 94. His name was Peter Higgs, a man who asked the fundamental question -- how is it that some subatomic particles have mass?

What is mass?

How do we acquire it, so as to create the physical Universe out of invisible nothingness?

By asking this question, he was inexorably drawn to a number of theoretical positions amounting to apostasy in the world of modern Physics, a rejection of the Theory of Special Relativity and its constraints, and a prediction that dumped us all back into the semi-superstitious "Aether Theory of the Eighteenth Century, which had been a theory abandoned for lack of evidence --- and not for any good proof against it.

Thinking people, and especially mathematicians, have long decried Einstein's Theory of Special Relativity as obvious bunk.

(I, myself, outraged my college Physics Professor by providing a three-line mathematical proof demonstrating that Special Relativity is and always was bunk; I also remember the social and academic fall-out with a cringe--- and feel a faint glow of vindication almost fifty years later.)

Now, rather than admit that the Aether Theory was correct, the academic community has relabeled the "Aether" as the "Field".

I suppose they all hope that nobody will notice that (a) political posturing and kow-towing to Einstein prevented meaningful progress in physics for over 100 years, and (b) the ridiculousness of The Theory of Special Relativity was obvious the whole time.

I digress into the contemplation of a separate subject -- the immense and obvious incompetence, dishonesty, complacency, and politicization of science -- and academia in general, out of necessity.

Just as the discovery of the Higgs Boson puts an end to The Special Theory of Relativity and just as renaming the "Aether" as the "Field" showcases the hypocrisy of the Academic Community from here to Capetown, these are not the only examples of the same "Negative Forces" of close-minded, self-interested, and ultimately self-defeating refusal to face facts coming home to roost.

James Clerk Maxwell's Unfinished Equations rate right up there with The Special Theory of Relativity.

Maxwell's equations and theorems have formed the basis of Electrical Engineering for the past century and a half, with nary a comment on the fact that he stopped, conveniently, in mid-stream, and never finished the job.

It took Tom Bearden to stand up and say, well, wait a minute....

It's obvious in retrospect that Clerk Maxwell was being paid by the same Captains of Industry who are benefited by the ratty, unsightly, wasteful, expensive, insecure electrical grid we still live with today.

The men benefiting from the Electrical Grid didn't want the equations finished, and so, they weren't.

If Clerk Maxwell had proceeded with the next bits, it would have become obvious that Zero Point Energy exists, and that the Electrical Grid is unnecessary.

We have all paid the consequences in ignorance, pollution, expense, and lack of progress ever since.

Such petty, self-interested "failures to engage" litter the scientific and industrial and especially, the medical science landscape, like the carcasses of abandoned cars at a junkyard.

The "generalization" of mathematics via the use of the so-called "Identity Principle" which nobody has ever been able to justify, has similarly reduced us to an endless process of approximating everything instead of dealing in exact measures.

It's like someone decided to introduce a totally irrational and unnecessary Fudge Factor into mathematics, for unknown reasons, and we all just followed along like ducklings (to our detriment and constant frustration) and never even questioned, "Why?".

Well, just because it is.....and you'd better do it this way if you want the right answer on the test, even though it is the wrong answer in actuality....

Witness the lectures by Terrence Howard on the subject of $1 \times 1 = \underline{\quad}$.

I invite everyone reading this to feel stupid enough to entertain taboo theories for the rest of your lives.

Peter Higgs suffered; Tom Bearden suffered; no doubt, if we are not vigilant and outraged, the same lazy, sanctimonious, bought-and-paid-for Goblins of Academe will make Terrence Howard pay, and yet, it is always, predictably, the Tin Hats who are the heroes and saviors, the Prometheans bringing light into scientific, mathematical, and cultural darkness.

These same Goblins will push through "Climate Change" as a Narrative and use fake science to cloak the real objective, which is two-fold: (1) blame innocent parties for the pollution caused by the Captains of Industry dumping noxious industrial process by-products and manmade chemicals into the environment, while at the same time, (2) form the justification for an entirely new system of taxation of the victims.

If they have their way, we won't be able to fart without paying a tax, but the Aluminum Manufacturers will continue to make a tidy sum selling a noxious industrial by-product (and poison) -- Fluoride, as an additive to our drinking water.

When you stand back far enough and squint, you can see that political and scientific corruption go hand-in-hand like peas and carrots; indeed, it's impossible to discern which comes first --- the subversion of the government or the subversion of science and honest scientific inquiry.

Both evils have so far infested our world that together they endeavor to control our minds and our pocketbooks with equal force; they have gone so far as to secretly inject people with self-assembling nano-transmitters that allow these Vermin to insert "False Thoughts" into our minds, and if need be, to shut our bodies down like so many Ever-Ready Bunnies tipped over on our sides.

In case you haven't noticed their tests of these kinds of weapons, notice all the reports of "mysterious" bird and marine die-offs, in which flocks of birds fall dead from the sky and schools of fish and turtles and marine mammals wash ashore for no apparent reason.

And if you stand just a little further back and squint a little harder, you will see that all this evil and deceit is about two things, and two things only -- coercive power over others, and money.

Once you have followed me down this rabbit track and into the warren this far, it's a no-brainer to imagine this:

A big, brown rat is in a maze in a laboratory; you, from your perspective and height, can see the rat standing in front of a simple device that feeds him a kernel of corn every time he steps on a lever.

That's you and me, friends. We have been conditioned just like the rat, only what we have been conditioned to do, is to step on a lever and receive a dollar bill or a bit of social approval.

Please observe that the kernel of corn has more intrinsic value than either a dollar bill or the ignorant approval of our peers.

Yes, we are dumber than a rat in a maze. And so are our social, political, and scientific institutions.

We are rendered idiots not by Nature, but by Behaviorist Conditioning, delivered by televisions and schools and drill sergeants--- all of which reward us when we accept the narrative of whatever drivel they are "selling" today, and punishes us when we don't.

The Vermin benefiting from this evil have glutted themselves until they have gone mad, until their lust for power and their greed have no boundaries at all.

Those who created the State of Israel are now inconvenienced by it; it's an embarrassment and expense; so they have collaborated to destroy it.

They no longer need oil from the Middle East, so it's just a pesky expensive nuisance to maintain Israel as a ground base there. They never believed the Bible, so there is no "relevance" to maintaining Israel for any cultural or religious reasons.

After decades of letting Israel run wild in the region and watching it become drunk with power, watching it abuse the "ersatz" Palestinian population in exactly the same way that Jews were abused in Poland, complete with ghettos --- the Infant Terrible is waking up to the fact that nearly all its neighbors hate its guts for good reasons, and Big Billy Goat Gruff is an illusion.

The majority of the Arab nations are ready to wipe Israel off the face of the Earth and quote, "finish the job the Nazis started" --- and the Nazis running Europe and DC are not overall inclined to come save them.

If the Vermin responsible for all this can draw "the US"---Inc., into a war in the Middle East (again) it's just as well to get rid of it, too, by pitting it against the insurmountable numerical and technological superiority of Russia, China, and Iran, combined.

These same characters, the British-affiliated Neo-Nazis, have been busy funneling all the good stuff from DARPA to China, and from China to Russia; and Iran, an ally of Russia and through Russia an ally of China --- it must be noted, is not a scientific slouch.

Unlike us, they haven't been impeded by the omissions, politicizations, and self-interested "science" afflicting the western world.

All of this is like a Grand Finale to a stage show, taking down the curtain on a vaudeville act: "Western Civilization, a Comedy of Errors in Three Acts".

The Vermin have pooped their poop on the western world like Californians leaving California, and now, they are on their way to China --- where they will start their own parasitic process all over again, using a new host for their profit and protection.

Was anyone watching when NATO tagged Germany to occupy Lithuania? Yes, Germany was "invited" to occupy another sovereign nation and the German Government, rightly, responded with -- "Is this a trick?"

The Germans insisted on wet-ink signatures, piles of paper, and bloody thumbprints before they agreed to do it.

Nobody in Lithuania was asked about it, either way.

Just as Israel took the bait, bombed the Iranian Embassy in Iraq, and expected Big Brother to stand good for it, the Germans are suspicious of NATO giving them permission to invade Lithuania.

Who, after all, gave NATO God's right over Lithuania? Is this not an Act of War?

Perhaps the Perps think that they can clog the arteries of the internet and gag the western press so effectively, that they can convince people that this is "more German aggression" instead of more gross overreach by NATO?

Who knows?

What we do know is that we have been fools, and that we have been deliberately conditioned to be fools, that we have suffered "behavior modification" just like Pavlov's dog, not in the service of humanity, and not in the service of science or advancement of any kind, but in the service of greedy banks and corporate interests that have no moral compass at all, and which make most of their money by promoting constant war.

Given this, we must know that we cannot trust the media, we can't trust what appears to be the government, we can't even rely on ourselves, because we have been so dumbed down and indoctrinated for so many years that we lack the factual basis and knowledge to rightly discern much of anything --- much less act accordingly.

About all we can do is what I have already told everyone to do: declare your birthright political status, and concentrate on what you want, what kind of world you want to live in and create -- not the world being created by these cretins and imposed on you, but your world. Imagine it. Determine what you want. And know that you still have the power to create it.
