

There is Nothing Occult

By Anna Von Reitz

The word "occult" means "hidden"----- and there is nothing hidden from you. Absolutely nothing. There are only things that you haven't thought of, things you are afraid to know, and things that Evil Ones have kept you ignorant of, so as to better plunder your assets and control you.

There is nothing occult in this world or upon this Earth. God has declared that if you knock, it shall be opened, and if you ask, it will not be withheld. You can experience this Truth for yourself any time you dare to knock upon His Door.

Not only is nothing hidden, more is constantly being revealed, directly, right under your noses. The Kingdom of God that has always been within you and part of you offers you unending riches of life and knowledge and experience that you only need to be brave enough to accept.

You are the product, part and parcel, of the greatest love story ever conceived. You are witnessing magic and wonders that make anything in Harry Potter look pale as a child's drawings. You are the Children of God----literally. The Earth is your playpen and schoolyard.

And if the true knowledge of who and what you are has been hidden from you, it can only be said that in the deepest sense, you have hidden it from yourselves.

There is One Life that fills the Universe and all of this dimension, and you are all part of it as a twig is a part of a branch. The One Life flows through you and exists within you and connects you to all other life, and if there is any occult secret, it is simply your own stubborn unawareness of your connectedness to everyone and everything else that exists.

You are afraid of this awareness because you fear that you will lose your individual consciousness. This is the same reason that you fear death. You think that your "self" will be lost and that what little you have will be taken from you. You think that your memories, good and bad, and all that makes you who and what you are will melt away and cease to exist, simply because the physical body does.

Imagine for a moment how silly and ungrateful and stupid this is?

You have been given an individual life and consciousness, as a gift. And now instead of being grateful and rejoicing and exploring it, you huddle up in a corner, pull a blanket over your head and cherish nasty suppositions about the motivations behind the gift.

You suspect the Giver will take it all back, that there has to be a hitch, that it is at once too wonderful to be true and too big a responsibility to undertake.

So you huddle in your little hut with the blanket over your head and curse the gift and blame the Giver for all the bad things you ever experience, unaware that you are causing your own misery and alienation and loneliness. And it could be far, far different, except for the choices that you make.

This isn't just about the history of America that has been obscured by con artists. This is about revelation on many levels and concerning many subjects. The word "apocalypse" means "the revealing" ---as in a curtain being withdrawn so that the light can pour in.

How is it that you rear your own children and watch them grow and take for granted all the stages of their maturing, and you hear the words that you are the "Children of God" and yet, you don't connect the meaning and implications of what you are being told?

What do you suppose it takes to mature a god-scion?

Just one lifetime in Puxtuxawilli, Maine?

Imagine for a moment that you are standing in a room, looking out the window to a garden beyond. Now, imagine that you turn and walk into another room and look out another window with another view.

That is how easy it is to change—and expand--- your perspective. Just a little adjustment. Walk a few feet into another room and look out another window. How easy is that?

By choosing to do something as simple as that, you can know all the secrets of the world, all that is hidden from you, all that has been used to defraud and control and limit you. And the choice and the means to do this is all yours, all in your control.

You can project your consciousness wherever you need it to go. You can look into any musty corner of history, know any secret, at will. Just as I do.

The "scales" will drop from your eyes---- your inner eyes. And at the same time you know the truth about your own nature, you will reconnect and willingly take your place in the great order of things, knowing for sure that you are greatly loved and greatly blessed far beyond your wildest dreams.

All fear melts away when you know the Truth. It simply doesn't exist anymore, because you are sure of who you are and who your Daddy is. What He tells you to do, you will run to do, gladly. What He asks, you will accomplish out of pure love. And you will never feel alone again.

The destiny planned for you all since the foundations of the world is something far grander than your minds can presently conceive, but what He has purposed shall be. You will grow, as a child does, and you will mature and become all that He cherishes in His heart for you.

God sees you, your ultimate pure essence, as a work already completed. He has already mandated your success. He does not see your mistakes and imperfections as anything defiling or ruining you; rather, He sees them as your own unique process of growth and transformation, steps toward becoming your own perfected self, lessons you have to learn.

Do you hate your child because he falls down and scrapes his knees?

So what is this nonsense of the hateful, vengeful God who is going to condemn His own children to flames of unending torment and death? Who, rather, is the "god" who delights in the "smell of burning flesh"?

There are two Gods in the Bible--- the True God and the False God. And the True God is constantly lied about and blasphemed by the False God. For what reason? So that you can learn the Truth and learn to tell the difference between truth and falsehood, right and wrong, good and evil. You must learn these lessons and develop an acute power of discernment in order to inherit your birthright and it is as plain and simple as that.

You have one job in this or any other lifetime that is your own most serious undertaking, and that is to master all the complexities of the "knowledge of good and evil", so that you can recognize both with consistency and certainty, discerning the good in evil and the evil in good, and choose your path according to the Will of your Father, the path that is good for you and all of creation.

You are all struggling with these lessons, so tutors are sent to you---and some tutors are better than others. As with all things, you must choose your teachers with discernment and judge the fruits of their teachings. Do they lead to peace or war? Do they provide mercy and charity, or violence and greed?

Stop and really think about what is valuable in life and what gives you lasting joy and you will know the Truth and nothing in Heaven or on Earth will be hidden from you. You can stop fearing the "occult" and start enjoying the revelation.

See this article and over 300 others on Anna's website here:www.annavonreitz.com

To support this work look for the PayPal button on this website.