

Stop Using Old Processes

By Anna Von Reitz

I have tried to get this message out to people and maybe we need to put up a Day-Glo banner at the top of the page at www.annavonreitz.com saying, "For current information go to the bottom of the list!"

In the past few years we have endured two (2) major bankruptcies of the Federal Government service corporations --- Chapter 7 for the British Crown corporation dba UNITED STATES, and Chapter 11 for the British Crown corporation dba UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

The instruction to file a Form 56 naming the British Territorial Secretary of the Treasury as "your" Trustee and to surrender the Municipal Franchise PERSON to the British Territorial Treasury (1789) was to protect the asset's existence from the Chapter 7 Involuntary Bankruptcy and bulwark the British Territorial Treasury with the assets --- while making the Secretary of the Treasury accountable for it.

Why would we want to do that?

To "roll" all the assets attached to your name to safe harbors. This action took the air jurisdiction assets and landed them in the jurisdiction of the sea, where they weathered the storm in Chapter 11.

In the years since then, equal protection clauses have been invoked, and even PERSONS that were not moved by Form 56 individual transfer action have been safeguarded and rolled home to the land and soil jurisdiction as of 2016.

Obviously, all those instructions and actions were taken at a specific prior time for specific purposes related to the now-resolved federal bankruptcies, and no longer apply, eight years later.

You should no longer be doing any of that.

Please use your heads. When you go to www.annavonreitz.com you are reading a steadily accumulating compendium of information and topics laid down day after day and year after year.

Especially in dealing with the Federal Contractors, things change constantly. Processes change, the meaning of words change, even the offices that perform functions change, change, change.

Even public records and court cases regularly "disappear", because they change their cataloging schemes like teenagers change clothes.

We call this "moving the cheese" and it requires constant adjustment as time goes by.

So, start with the most recent articles at the bottom of the long, long list at www.annavonreitz.com and read the articles backwards to get grounded with what's current.

And when you see something from years ago, ask yourself -- is this current? Is this what we are doing now? Probably not.

We are living and growing and changing every day, bringing new resources to bear, developing new answers, and streamlining everything.

Your State Assembly has the latest news, so ask them --- what's current now?
