

International Public Notice: "Our" President

By Anna Von Reitz

Today we get more lies coming out of media sources and more confused Americans bleating nonsense such as "Tim Turner is our President".

He may be the "President" of a group of Americans who are unknowingly acting as British Territorial U.S. Citizens and operating as a British Crown licensee under a name that sounds like it is something related to our government — but no, Tim Turner is NOT "our" President.

He is even more decidedly NOT our President than Donald Trump.

Our American President, who is the President of our Federation of States, is elected by the member States of the Federation.

That is, within each State Assembly, the members cast their votes for President. Based on their vote tally, the State Assembly casts its vote, now one of fifty.

There is no weighted ballot in our Presidential Election. Tiny Rhode Island counts as much as California. This has been a matter of concern in the past but the argument in favor of our practice is compelling:

A sovereign state is a sovereign state and each member state of the Federation deserves an equal voice on behalf of its people under the Equal Footing Doctrine.

That final vote by the member States of the Union is conducted by Electors who "carry the vote" of their Assembly.

We are stating this in public because it is apparently necessary to explain it, not only to certain clueless members of the American populace and to U.S. Citizens, but also to the world at large.

If anyone stopped to think about it, it makes perfect sense that our "popular" vote takes place within the membership of each State Assembly, but the actual election takes place when each of the States weighs in and casts its vote for President.

This is the rightful title of the American President:
The President of The United States of America.

Not the President of the United States of America.

Not the President of the united States of America.

Not the President of the Republic of the United States of America.

Not....not....not.....

So, now that we have cleared up these matters, let's also observe that to elect "our" President, each one casting a ballot must be standing in their proper birthright status as an American State National. Each Elector casting a ballot on behalf of a State of the Union must be a State Citizen and member of that State Assembly in order to have standing to vote for "Our" President.

If Tim Turner or Donald Trump wish to be "Our" President, they need to return to their birthright status as Georgians or New Yorkers (in their cases) and go through our election process. Period.
