From Anna Von Reitz

Unknown to most Americans there has been a hereditary Head of State covering the international jurisdiction of the actual states of the Union since September 9, 1776. This was necessary because in the international jurisdiction there are no living people --- only corporations, incorporations, and heads of state. The Americans of course were against the whole concept, but had no choice--- if they wanted to operate in international jurisdiction they had to choose someone who was a free sovereign already---- so they chose William Belcher, a Colonel in the Continental Army, who was already a free sovereign in England and France.

This fact was obscured even within the family responsible because of the Civil War.

My husband is the current Head of State. He is uniquely able to declare the peace and the end of the so-called interregnum.

His family holds the Great Seals of both The United States of America and The United States (which is under delegation).

They have the right to display the open seal --- without the circle enclosing it, while the Kings and Queens of England have traditionally wielded the closed version representing delegated or secondary power.

Please see the attached Declaration ending the endless "war" and the presumed interregnum and then read the entire document.

This is not quite ready for general public release yet--- just wanted you to have it and know that it is coming. I could use help rounding up mailing addresses and especially the emails of the fifty National Guard Adjutant Generals, the National Guard Civil Affairs Officers, and any and all others you can think of who need to get a nose full of this.

We have to get this out internationally and domestically before the Rothschilds force the world into another senseless war over casino chips. .
