

Response from the Doorstop

By Anna Von Reitz

If I controlled 22 Trillion "by myself" don't you think I would be driving something better than a sixteen year old BMW?

Use your heads. I stuck myself like a doorstop in a door, forcing that door to remain open for other Americans. When this started, hardly anyone outside the Navy knew what was going on, so when I got wind of the filings of the Fiscal Services Division, I counter-claimed and did it in such a way that everyone else could follow. It is still my estate lodged in the door that makes it possible for everyone else to escape and get back what they are owed-- your share of $22 Trillion.

It's not "my" 22 Trillion. It's 22 Trillion owed to the States and People of this country --- our National Credit.

What I accomplished with that little move is known as Portia's Paradox. They might own all the blood in my body, but not a cubic centimeter of my flesh. In the same way, they might have compromised the international jurisdiction of the sea on their own time, but they don't have any claim at all on our land and soil ---- that is, so long as we stand our ground and claim it and aren't stupid enough to give it away.

As I explained to someone else this morning --- the reason that the military script is issued as debt notes is that when they issue them, they are already in debt to us. They seized upon our assets--our bodies, our names, our ownership interest in our soil and land, everything--- at the hospitals, which appeared to be civilian institutions---- and used us and our assets to borrow against and stand as collateral backing their script and their spending. That makes them our debtors. That's why Federal Reserve Notes are debt notes. And that is why they owe us not only the notes, but the return on all those notes. It's actually far, far more than $22 Trillion.

The irony is that we have vast "lawful assets" that are owed to The United States of America and once we put this to bed, the military is fully funded. They just have to get their heads wrapped around the situation and the nature of their "National Debt" so that they can accept being funded by Credit Notes instead of Debt Notes.

As the situation developed and we learned more, we realized that the attack was aimed at "vacating" our land and soil jurisdiction with false claims saying that we had "abandoned" our land and soil jurisdiction and all voluntarily adopted "Federal Citizenship" instead---- which would then open the door for Secondary Creditors to move in and seize our land and soil assets as payment for debts owed by the Queen and the Pope.

It was then that we launched full bore into the 1933 fraud which led to the 1907 and 1868 frauds. We had to go all the way back and then bring it forward to the present day. And along the way, we had to dope out the necessary moves to correct our falsified political statuses, and then bring forward the Federation Holding Company, and then educate and organize everyone to build properly constituted State Assemblies.

Is there anything else that you would like a great-grandmother from a tiny hamlet in Alaska to do for you?

Well, there is something you can do for me. You can all wake up. All the way up.

I am tired of dealing with the rats in front and the traitors and ignoramuses behind. I don't know how many years I have left, much less how many good years my husband and I may have. He is sixteen years older than me and I am old enough. Do you get my drift? We are tired and worn and still here doing far, far more than our fair share to get this Mess cleaned up and get restitution for the living people instead of more money going to the goddamned banks and insurance companies and all the other corporations that are feeding on all of us like vultures.

For starters, they are the ones that are supposed to be paying the taxes, not us.

There is absolutely nothing "inconsistent" about what I have said ---- except in the cases wherein I have been obliged to make corrections myself as I went along and learned more. There have been some corrections on the way, but other than that, there are no inconsistencies that I know of, and we learn more that corroborates our findings every day.

Accept the fact that you can pay for military services with credit we have already earned, or be snookered and continue to pay debts you don't owe. I repeat --- WTFU. I will leave you to decode my meaning.

See this article and over 2000 others on Anna's website here: www.annavonreitz.com

To support this work look for the PayPal buttons on this website.