

International Public Notice: the Settlement of the Corporations

By Anna Von Reitz

As reported some months ago, Pope Francis has been out of office owing to the dissolution of the Office of the Roman Pontiff and the underlying Romanus Pontifex Trust in 2011, and the fact that Benedict XVI did not provide for the transfer of the Ministerial Office prior to his own death --- a situation that has baffled everyone.

That conundrum now appears to be solved as Pope Francis has reacquired an ancient title, "Patriarch of the West", that was once accorded to the Roman Bishop when the Roman Empire was divided into East and West portions and operated under two capitols --- Byzantium in the East and Rome in the West, while the then-Church similarly operated under the Patriarch of the East and the Patriarch of the West.

We are witnessing a truly remarkable moment in history.

Rome has fallen flat on its nose after being estranged from the Eastern Church for centuries, and after the Patriarchs have roundly condemned Pope Francis's stand on same sex marriage and other exceptionally liberal changes of doctrine that Francis has championed, they have apparently forgiven him, welcomed him back into the fold of the Orthodox Church, and given him an office --- Patriarch of the West --- without which he could not continue his administration.

We have no information about the specifics of this Deal of the Century, but we can and do speculate that Francis will have to act with much more circumspection with regard to any doctrinal changes, which will require input and oversight from the Eastern Church under the old East-West system.

A sigh of relief from conservative Catholics can be heard on a worldwide basis following this announcement, however, this is echoed by a groan of misery from the fringe of Progressives who were looking forward to "normalization" of homosexuality and changes to the Holy Scripture's translation in the Roman Catholic Bible to accommodate this, also ordination of female priests, same sex marriages, normalization of pedophilia, bestiality, and other sexual "choices", and official inclusion of Satanism as part of the ecumenical community.

We can also count on changes in the new Western Church's financial management, with a greater portion of profits and "gifts" flowing eastward and a much more conservative investment portfolio. They may even have to quit trading Baptismal Certificates as securities based on the market value of individual souls.

It is well-known and long-established that the Eastern Patriarch sternly refused to participate in this gross abuse of trust and that the Eastern Church struggled along without the financial benefit of buying, selling, and trading in the souls of its members after the Second World War.

The cessation of this venal and undisclosed "stockmarket of the Devil" will no doubt be accompanied by a steep decline in the Western Church's material wealth and financial position, as closing this stock exchange veiled as "labor contracts" will require them to buy back all of the stock as well as foregoing any more income from it.

This may have always been Francis's personal intention and goal, as he often spoke of the church he envisioned as a "poor church" abundant in good works. Redeeming all the souls that the Western Church sold may have been the reason that Francis called back all liquid assets to the Vatican Bank more than a year ago.

If he succeeds in doing this, Pope Francis will deserve the title of History's Greatest Deal-Maker -- both for shutting down the soul-trafficking business, and winning over the support of the Eastern Church despite all the scandalous liberalism that has been the hallmark of his tenure.

We are left with many unanswered questions about the vacated Office of the Pope and where this leaves both Francis and the Church with respect to the obligations and authorities of the Ecclesiastical Law.

The Office as Patriarch of the West vastly predates the rise of the modern corporate world and was not, with the exception of simple trusts, in play at the time that the activities of the Roman Curia busily inventing corporate business models began in earnest.

We called upon Francis to exercise his authority under Ecclesiastical Law (and all manner of treaties and contracts) to liquidate lawless corporations and discipline their CEO's, which was part of the Church's obligation in creating and structuring the plethora of corporate structures in use today.

Instead of answering us directly, Francis liquidated the then-operating UNITED STATES corporation, but left the British Crown operation, dba "the United States of America, Incorporated" untouched, as if he assumed that our demand applied only to the Church's direct holdings in the District of Columbia.

We were, in fact, making a more inclusive and generalized complaint against both parent corporations, for their lawless misadministration of their obligations to the American people, their unlawful conversion activities via undisclosed registration of American babies as British Territorial U.S. Citizens, and all the resulting harm done to our nation and our country.

As a condition of being allowed to create and profit from all these corporate business models and the economic activity they generated, the Church agreed to oversee their operations and limit their activities to "lawful" enterprise -- not merely "legal" standards.

Over the years the horses got out of the barn and people forgot the agreements and contracts signed by the various governments making the Pope responsible for overseeing and disciplining all corporations and holding them to the lawful standard. As the high rolling profits kicked in, the oversight functions got sloppier and sloppier and a succession of Popes left the oversight and administrative functions to increasingly corrupt incorporated governments, which were left to police themselves-- a practice which only guaranteed that predictable corruption and criminality would flourish to unprecedented heights.

With the destruction of the League of Nations the powers of lawful enforcement were decimated; the 1926 Law abolishing both slavery and peonage worldwide, for example, sank beneath the waves for lack of enforcement capability. The accords still exist and are on the books, but the means to enforce them disappeared, rendering them moot.

Winston Churchill's Territorial Government and the Admiralty Government he was part of colluded to deal the death blows to the lawful governments and their League of Nations using the argument that the League had failed to stop World War I and World War II, so that "stronger" means of enforcement --- military means --- were needed. This meant that the war-mongers and their briney corporations were put in power instead, and the United Nations was born.

The Church and the Office of the Pope were only too happy to turn over the day to day administration to Churchill and his Successors, who used the British Admiralty and British Territorial Government as their pattern to govern all the "occupied territories" that were presumed to be vacant and without an organized national government after the Second World War.

So the British eagerly ginned up "National Associations" to take over the administration of land and soil assets and "National Corporations" which were all owned and operated as franchises of the British Crown to manage the business operations of entire countries exclusively in the international jurisdiction of the sea -- all the banks and monetary systems were converted to function in Maritime Commerce and Admiralty, all the courts converted to serve those two jurisdictions only, and all the people in all the several countries impacted by this criminal misadministration were also "presumed upon" to act as British Territorial Persons and Municipal citizens of various stripe.

The Popes handed over administration of the air jurisdiction functions to similarly constructed Municipal Corporations, so that the Corporations gained the upperhand over people and their assets, and could coerce, fleece, impose upon, mischaracterize, punish, destroy marketplace competitors and political opposition at will.

Everyone forgot that it was, and we would argue, still is, the Church's contractual obligation under Ecclesiastical Law to ride herd on all the creations of the Roman Curia even if the specific Office of the Pope is vacated and Francis occupies an antique relic of an office, Patriarch of the West, instead.

The changes of fortunes and offices and titles does not abrogate the obligations inherited by the Successors to contracts, so we still hold the Church of Rome and the Western Church responsible for the debts of the Roman Catholic Church and its administrative obligations.

The misadministration and evasion of these responsibilities has led to a world that is literally upside down, a world in which corporations -- which are inventions of the imagination -- have ridden roughshod over the natural and unalienable rights of their creators, a world in which foreign territorial government contractors, also acting as corporations, have enforced this madness on entire countries in disrespect of the Public Law and their own contractual obligations.

As the Principals and Successors of the Roman Catholic Church and Holy See will not undertake the painful process of liquidating individual corporations which have operated unlawfully and caused harm to innocent people, for example, Pfizer, Incorporated, the Bureaus of Vital Statistics, the WHO, INC., and so on, and as they are actively engaged in a form of evasion by substitution of titles and offices, we declare all conventions and accords allowing for the existence of corporations to be in default, null and void.

We act as the Last Man Standing, a Party to these conventions, accords, contracts, treaties, and agreements.

We similarly declare that as a result of this default, all Territorial and Municipal Corporations worldwide are dissolved and the assets controlled by these organizations are nationalized for the benefit of the living people in the countries in which these assets exist, with the single exception that private property belonging to individual people must be returned to their specific ownership and control, with all pretense of their purported enfranchisement and willing participation in this vast impersonation fraud being exonerated.

Corporations that have operated lawfully and in good faith are allowed to migrate to the land and soil jurisdiction of the country or countries where they currently have facilities and personnel and are obligated to operate under the Public Law of the land and soil thereof. They are to conduct their business as lawful international trade or as commerce under the dictums of the Merchant Law/Law Merchant. To the extent that the Uniform Commercial Code conforms and complies with the Maxims of Law Merchant and Merchant Law generally, it may continue in use.

The banks are required to resume actual trade in lawful money, to return the benefit of the credit system to the actual owners--- the living people whose assets were purloined and used to generate the credit in the first place, and all odious debts must be written off as if they never were. This includes but is not limited to mortgages attached to real estate titles, gift and estate taxes, employer taxes, property taxes, franchise taxes, utility taxes, payroll taxes and any other fees and obligations attached to citizenship, personhood, indentured servitude or enslavement contracts of any kind.

If any one, including any "person" being liquidated and refusing or being unable to take the lawful remedy, wishes to apply for exemption owing to circumstances beyond their control, they have one year and one day starting with today's date to make their case or forever hold their peace.

Our congratulations to Pope Francis, or rather, the Patriarch of the West, for beating to port in a storm that the Church would otherwise not be likely to survive. While an abdication and evasion in one respect, we consider that his action and the action of the Eastern Patriarchs has saved many innocent lives and gotten the Church out of the middle of what we shall call the Settlement of the Corporations.

As the Treaties of Westminster have all been knowingly dishonored by the Lord Mayors of the Inner City of London, we may face additional criminal acts in the nature of inland piracy from Municipal courts and Territorial Courts operating outside their natural jurisdiction in violation of the strict limitations set by their constitutional service contracts.

Peace, that elusive wild bird, seems only to exist as long as the majority shareholders refuse to give their proxies to any representative and attend to their own business. The "good faith" of the British Crown has been even more elusive than peace for the past 300 years, and together with its Government, the Crown stands exposed as a criminal mercenary organization tatted up with a lot of arcane knowledge used to promote illusions and delusions of various kinds, such as the existence of "Social Contracts", "Persons", obligatory "Citizenship", "Negotiable Instruments", "Securitization", the value of "Engraved Images", and so much more.

Their efforts have resulted in the creation of a series of sordid Never-Never-Lands suited to piracy and injustice, violence and fraud. What began with the proverbial Land of Oz and the development, among other things, of the modern drug trade and the wholesale theft via coerced, undisclosed, and inequitable exchange of gold and silver belonging to our country, has ended in a massive and deliberate nightmare of Transhumanism-for-profit, genocide-for-profit, and disease-for-profit schemes.

Even now, with approximately 33 million Americans dead because of their "vaccine" and nearly a billion dead including a disproportionate number of elders and young people lost worldwide, these old Necromancers are still trying to dance around and fool us into thinking that they and their mercenaries are our heroic deliverers and defenders and not the common rats they are.

They hired and coercively licensed the bureaucrats and "Uniformed Officers" --- the Bar Attorneys, Doctors, Professors, and of course, they hired and have controlled the Police as private Security Personnel for the benefit of their corporations --- and now, they are trying to offer up their employees as scapegoats, blaming their employees for doing what they were told to do, trying to go after "the Freemasons" to disguise an attack against domestic police forces, which are largely Masonic organizations.

We aren't fooled.

They spin all these narratives and tell us all these outlandish stories, as if we were little children, gullible enough to mistake Santa Claus for Saint Nicholas and puffballs for scoops of ice cream.

The miseries of the world are founded on lies as insubstantial as wind.

None of what Westminster is selling actually exists. It's all hokum. Thus the "loss" of all these corporations is no loss, but the loss of a billion innocent people is a loss--- one that the Government of Westminster is uniquely responsible for. The "loss" of trillions of paper and digital I.O.U.s is not a loss; its a relief from obnoxious odious debt. We could go on and on stating the obvious, but we will forego the opportunity.

The British Monarchy was being used as a storefront for Westminster, which was running the British Territorial "Raj" as a world-spanning Mercenary Force. This false soldiery then hired civilians to do their Dirty Work and even had the effrontery to label these people as "the civilian military" --- another oxymoron just like "sovereign citizen".

Now that the chips are down and their bad faith, breach of trust, and violation of their service contracts is obvious, they are desperately trying to justify their actions using any possible excuse.

They try to take refuge in The Law of War and Military Conquest, but there's no war present --- nothing but a long list of self-interested "wars" for profit, all Mercenary Conflicts disguised as "war".

They claim that our country is in a perpetual emergency --- that they are deliberately causing and prolonging, and on this basis, they try to justify "emergency powers" for themselves that don't exist, either.

Rather than accept the facts and deal with reality, they propose to round up millions of their own former employees and put them to death for "treason" --- when they are themselves the ones with the obligation to serve under the Constitutions, obligations that they have evaded and betrayed every day of every year since April of 1861.

They've been spinning lies and narratives so long, they have lost touch with reality or rather, hope that we have.

What these characters desperately need is confession and amnesty and rehabilitation, but they have done so many terrible things for money and credit and coercive power, they know they don't deserve any quarter from the rest of the world. And they fear the truth, because they know that they are the ones that deserve to be swinging from the ends of the ropes.

We don't need any "show" of justice when it's clear that this has gone beyond any hope of the real thing. We refuse any offer to sacrifice the bureaucrats for the sins of the military. There's been more than enough reckless, wanton, senseless killing and blood-letting to last a million years or more, more than enough Team A versus Team B bull crap, and more than enough ecological and cultural destruction.

What we need is an end to all the "shows" and pretend worlds that bleed over into ours --- an end to the lies, obfuscations, and excuses, the fraud and impersonations and false claims.

And an end to criminal mercenary violence, such as that going on right now in Gaza.

We don't give a good goddamn about the Gaza oil basin and neither should any of you. It's not ours and it's not Westminster's, and that's for sure. That oil rightfully belonged to the people of Gaza who have been murdered -- slaughtered -- crushed alive -- by the Israeli government acting as the State of Israel, Incorporated. Do you think we miss the point?

We've been set up as scapegoats, too. Westminster and the for-show Monarchy would be more than happy to offer up "the Americans" as the source of the misery that they have inflicted on us along with the rest of the world, if they thought they could get away with it.

The British Monarchy and Westminster have lied to us and to the entire rest of the world for 160-plus years, lied to their own people, and preyed upon everyone concerned for six generations. There isn't a reason in the world that their own soldiers shouldn't turn on them and transform the Inner City of London into a thick slab of smoking glass, because they have all been lied to, used and abused, too.

It is our wisdom and our Will that we not experience any more violence-- that is, more of what we don't want-- in the name of justice; we accept the fact that for crimes as deeply entrenched and as long term as these crimes have been, there is no justice possible.

Even if we killed every banker and every professional soldier on Earth a thousand times over, and every professional bureaucrat and government agent, too, there aren't enough additional lives to be sacrificed to this insanity to make up for one-tenth of what these phony "governments" have cost humanity already--- much less any way to make it right.

So we will pass on the Perpetrators' "offer" of more wholesale slaughter, and deal with the criminals as criminals, instead.

We choose to focus our energy and attention on building a far different and better and happier world--- a world committed to love and truth.
