

The Great Fraud in 25 Words Or Less

By Anna Von Reitz

The Great Fraud is a process designed to strip living men of their identity and assets in order to benefit corporations.

Soulless faceless corporations are lined up all over the world feeding off the living people like vampires.

They are using patents, trademarks, and stolen copyrights to do it.

So that is why we lay claim to the harmful copyrights, patents, and trademarks in the name of the actual government of this country--- to not only bring collateral to provide relief to the people harmed, but to shut down the fraud process itself.

Two birds with one stone.
