

International Public Notice: The Simple Truth

By Anna Von Reitz

First, understand that The United States is not bankrupt. A Municipal Corporation in the District of Columbia calling itself "the United States" --- Incorporated, is bankrupt.

Second, settling the bankruptcy of this corporation requires shutting down (liquidating) or taking over (merging) all the various agencies and departments that were part of it.

Third, this same bankruptcy requires that there be a complete and competent audit of the accounts and financial status of each component department or agency franchise.

Approximately two-thirds of what has been operating as "the Federal Government" is on the chopping block, and Donald Trump has no choice about any of this.

What we are seeing is not a coup. It's not vengeance. It's not Donald Trump on a white horse coming to save anyone.

This is all action being taken to sort out the bankruptcy of a "governmental services corporation" and the only thing unusual about it, is the sheer size of the corporation and the amount of abject corruption, waste, and criminal activity being discovered as a result of the bankruptcy process.

Keep in mind that USAID and the scandalous information pouring out of that popped pimple is just one relatively small account system among hundreds of such administrative units.

So buckle up, Buttercups, and prepare to see the bottom of the Swamp and all the Swamp Creatures fully exposed and flailing around in the mud.

We are not sure why this is apparently coming as a shock to so many Democratic members of Congress -- the bankruptcy began over ten (10) years ago. It has been a Chapter 7 Involuntary Bankruptcy from the start. Exactly what we are seeing is the known end result.

So why go stand outside the Treasury Building in DC in the rain and shout slogans? And why blame or credit Donald Trump? Pope Francis is the one who pulled the plug.

This information is vital and needs to be shared as widely as possible, so that people are not misled into cult worship of Donald Trump as the Great Deliverer. Or Pope Francis, either.

The Pope was acting to protect the interests of the Roman Catholic Church. Donald Trump is acting as the CEO presiding over the bankruptcy process.

We are the endlessly defrauded employees of the bankrupt and criminally mismanaged corporation presently being liquidated.

All this is as simple and hum-drum as rain falling from the sky, and it has no shade of political meaning, though it will have a political result. And economic results, too.

Approximately a million and a half federal employees will end up on the streets looking for other work. The smart ones are getting out now and taking advantage of Trump's offer of eight months of severance pay.

Some departments and agencies will get cut more than others, depending on the work they do and their past performance. Out of 10,000 USAID workers, only 297 are being retained by Marco Rubio. Enough said.

While the eyes of the nation are focused on the financial corruption scandal that is just getting started, remember that we are the ones who were defrauded and disserved--- along with all the innocent people worldwide who needed money from USAID to drill water wells and build roads and so many other worthy things --- and who got funding for Terrorists and Drag Queen Musicals instead.

We ask that the corporate veil be removed.
