

International Public Notice: The Treaty of the Blood

By Anna Von Reitz

A great many lies have been told by a great many people seeking to enrich and empower themselves at the expense of others. They think they have to push each other down and "get on top".

So the only way they can get "up" is by pushing someone else "down".

The truth of the matter is that the land of the entire planet was stolen in 1302 by Pope Boniface the Eighth; we have the evidence of who, what, when, where, how, and why this was done, fully established in public and private records.

So that is where it started, this idea that someone other than the man living on land owned it and had some kind of control over it.

The Pope claimed it, and then, the Popes set up governments called "Kingdoms" on the land (after Enki) and "Monarch" on the sea (after Jehovah-Enlil) and "Emperors" in the air (after Anu). All these offices were created by the Popes and all these various government officers were crowned by who? The Popes.

This entire bureaucracy and all the land claims established under it began in 1302. It divided the Earth into two spheres (Hemispheres) and three international/global jurisdictions: land, air, and water (LAW) overseen by Kings, Emperors, and Monarchs.

This system overtook Europe very quickly and spread from Europe to the rest of the world.

Suddenly we were wondering, where did these all these "kings" come from? Who are they? Why are we bowing and scraping to them? Answer: they were the Overseers appointed by the Popes to rule over the Pope's slaves --- all the lawful, natural living people, who were suddenly denigrated to the level of "Human Creatures".

This was done to make a distinction between the Popes, the Overseers (Kings, etc.) and the Slaves called "Human Creatures" that the Overseers kept in line for the Popes.

There were actually two kinds of Overseers -- Sacred and Secular; The Sacred Overseers were Ministers (priests, magistrates, etc. operating under Canon Law) and the Secular Overseers were Kings, Monarchs, and Emperors and all their supporters and employees operating under Secular Law in each jurisdiction.

Long before all this got going in Europe, we all lived under treaties made of blood.

You still see echoes of this when kids cut their palms and squeeze them together to become "blood brothers" at summer camp or to solemnize particularly binding promises and obligations.

You also see this in the tradition of arranged marriages and the long history of princesses married off to consolidate the wealth, power, or simply guarantee the peace between kingdoms.

England made an attempt to create such a Treaty --- and establish such a claim to land and property in America by marrying off one of their officers (a Secular Overseer) named John Rolfe to Pocohontas, and thereby secure a claim for the King through John Rolfe to Pocohontas' inheritance in America.

In those days, when a woman married, all of her property was gained by her husband. And if her husband happened to be an Overseer (also called an Overlord if he controlled land estates for the King who controlled it, in turn, for the Pope) everything she owned went to him and from him to his liege-lord, the King.

This is just an example of how John Rolfe was used to secure a claim "for" his King to all the land owned by Pocohontas' Father, the Chief of the Powhatan people, through his daughter.

But by 1614 when this deal went down, the custom of making Treaties by blood (marriages) was dying out and for many reasons, was disappearing from public knowledge, to be practiced only by the elites, who continued the practice of blood treaties by marrying their own cousins -- and thereby consolidating familial wealth and power.

A similar but less obvious practice resulted from contracts as "godfathers" and "godmothers". These contracts established in the jurisdiction of the air created a claim to the estates of the godfathers and godmothers for the babies, but also obligated the babies and whatever worldly goods they might have at birth or later inherit, to the Church, standing as a Silent Partner and Trustee, enabled to enforce these obligations and benefit itself from the contracts.

These were soul treaties, but the concept is eerily the same; instead of blood, the contract was sealed by water. Baptismal water. The Church acted as the Owner/Trustee of the soul, the godparents acted as the Overseers, and the baby was the Donor of the Assets to the trust--- his body, his labor, his soul, his land, his money, his time on Earth, all neatly snatched away as soon as possible after birth.

As this system of surreptitious theft and "management" of "resources" refined itself, and because the Pope's particular domain is the air jurisdiction, certificates were issued for these deposits -- a baptismal certificate for the soul (representing all spiritual assets), a territorial birth certificate for the body (representing all physical assets), and a municipal birth certificate for the labor, inventions, and performances (representing the value of our labor and other intellectual and energetic assets).

This is what the three keys of the Papal Tiara represent -- the enslavement of body, mind, and soul to Christ -- "the anointed one", an office-holder or priest.

They leave everyone to think that the Christ is synonymous with Jesus and that Jesus is synonymous with Yashua and that Yashua is synonymous with Yahoshua.... but no. There is really no reason to assume any of that. It's just another Substitution Fraud of the kind we have seen many times since.

We digress only to demonstrate how we have all been sold a proverbial Bill of Goods and how our trust in institutions and our innocent assumptions, have, together with their sins of omission, been combined to defraud and control mankind.

Getting back to blood treaties, one specific Blood Treaty needs our attention now -- a Blood Treaty between the Iroquois Nations and the Armorican people of Normandy in France.

To this day, it is hard to find any member of any Iroquois League tribal nation who doesn't test positive for French ancestry.

The Amoricans who still live on the southwestern part of the Normandy Peninsula are the ones who gave their name to the new continents of the Americas. Their blood treaties and trading relationships are memorialized in stories and legends, in petroglyphs (some going back to Egypt) and DNA.

Scandinavians allied with the Amoricans (both seafaring nations) arrived in North America and began colonizing circa 10,000 BC and became known as the Mound People, white skinned, blue-eyed, and red or blond-haired, these immigrants built large colonies of thousands of people. Their blood treaties account for the blue-eyed, blond-haired individuals who appeared among the black-haired, dark-eyed tribal populations who greeted the "first" European explorers.

To this day, supposedly full-blood American Indians from tribes all along the Eastern Seaboard and far Inland have traces of Scandinavian and German DNA --- which people assume is of relatively recent origin, maybe back to Viking days, but no, the records are clear.

DNA occurs in sequence. It is entirely possible to count approximately how many generations have passed since new DNA was added.

When we do that kind of analysis, we find that white men have been in this country as long as red, black or yellow men. And longer than some.

So before we begin identifying some people as "indigenous" based on skin color and eye shape and language affiliations, and others as "non-indigenous" it behooves us all to look at the DNA evidence, which shows that there is one (1) family of mankind, one (1) common Mother from whom we all inherit our mitochondria, and no reason to assume that any one race or religion or people are indigenous to any one region.

In fact, the DNA evidence proves that ultimately, we all came from Africa. So a strong and rational argument can be made that anyone living outside of Africa is non-indigenous.

We are bringing this forward to stop the Old One-Eyed Bastard from fooling everyone again and starting another round of the same old game of Divide and Conquer and setting up the same old system of Landlords, Overseers, and Slaves.

They do this by arbitrarily choosing new skills to act as Landlords, and establishing a new "elite" to work as Overseers for the Landlords, and leaving everyone else as Slaves.

Is this what we want to perpetuate? Or are we ready to progress to a better world and be better people?

Those including the Holy Roman Empire hegemony promoting all this "indigenous versus non-indigenous" talk know what they are doing and they are spinning a narrative and taking advantage of racial bigotry and festering abuse to promote it.

All to keep our attention away from the fact that the "Great Divide" is never among living people. The Divide is between living people and corporations.

There's only one mankind, and we have all been manipulated and defrauded and enslaved and deluded enough not to realize this and act upon it.

So let's take a step back and look at the 1613 Blood Treaty and the Sea Treaty back to the King of England that present claims are built upon --- and realize that the name "The United States of America" derives from "The United Nations of America" ---- a body that existed for hundreds of years prior to any modern European system of Kings and Monarchs and Emperors.

The Blood Treaties of the Americans go back at least to 800 AD in this country, not 1613.

These Nations were the Iroquois Nations and their affiliates all the way down to Florida in the South and the Northern Plains ---- and also, their kin, by marriage and Blood Treaty going back more than a thousand years, the Americans.

They established The United Nations of America also called The Iroquois League circa 800 AD and their problem then and now, was trading with the remnants of the Roman Empire.

Their seasonal meetings took place in the area now known as Philadelphia every year. This is why our capitol is in Philadelphia. This is why this country is called America. And this is why the unincorporated government of this country in international and global jurisdictions is called The United States of America.

"Nation" refers to the living people, and "States" refers to the land.

But before you get confused:

There are two such entities that claim the land -- The United States of America which is our lawful and unincorporated government --- which is American and which has never been incorporated at all.

And "the" United States of America, which is British and which has been incorporated for many years.

It is this second, foreign business that has usurped upon our lawful government, stolen our identity, abused our flag (or at least one version of it, their Territorial Title IV flag) and which is responsible for so much of the misery and injustice that has crippled the whole world.

It's not the Americans (Amoricans) who stole the land from anybody. That distinction belongs to the Brits.

It's not the Americans who were defeated at little Big Horn. That too, was the Brits and their Territorial Flag.

It wasn't the Americans who gave anyone any blankets impregnated with smallpox during Prince Philip's War or any time afterward.

It wasn't the Americans who herded up native children and sent them to residential schools. All of this violence and cruelty and greed and nastiness is and always was, the Brits -- first under their kings, and last under their political party executives parading around as corporate "Presidents".

How do we know this, when everyone else seems stupefied?

The Belle Chers were the Kings of Gaul and they have remained hereditary Kings of Normandy and central England. The American people are our people---- in what is now called France and in what is now called America, and wherever they may roam.

It's our DNA mingled throughout the far reaches of this country and our claim to it by Blood Treaty and our symbols and names carved into these rocks and our sons and daughters who have been misled and abused by the Overseers of the Popes.

Our claims in the modern world are lodged in favor of the living people, those with hands and feet, and against the corporations that have been raised up to steal from us and enslave us.

So when certain leaders rant and rave against the Europeans and accuse "Americans" of stealing their land --- remember that it wasn't us who stole anything.

It was the Pope, it was his priests, it was his kings, his monarchs, and his emperors-- and all their minions and armies and officers, all working to unjustly enrich and empower themselves by "claiming title" to other people's names and property.

Remember that we had and we have, by Blood Treaty, every right to consider ourselves "indigenous" and landowners and free people in this country and wherever our DNA flows and our name is invoked.

Remember that a Blood Treaty overstands all other forms of treaties and is valid on air, land, and sea.
