

Why Trump Will Be Tried Under the Law of Admiralty

By Anna Von Reitz

I have had far too many people asking me about this eventuality, rushing around all concerned and worried about Mr. Trump.

Don't worry about The Donald.

He will be tried under Admiralty Law and he will tell the Judges what to do and think and how high to jump ---and that will be that.

He's the Captain of their Ship of State as well as the Captain of their Corporation, so what in blazes does anyone think he's going to do?

Condemn himself? Or pardon himself?

Go figure, but don't grind away on it too long....

Those Municipal DAs in NYC and the State of Georgia District Franchise are dumber than ten boxes of rocks to think that they were ever going anywhere but straight down.

And we are all dumber than they are, to imagine that The Donald is in any danger.

He's right where he wants to be, dead center in the Briar Patch, soaking up all this public concern and sympathy for him, watching his approval ratings climb, beating the other candidates silly without spending a dime.

No, don't worry about Trump. He's as fine as frog's hair on an evening in July, just cruising along, humming a little Stevie Wonder song, "Don't you worry 'bout a thing, don't you worry 'bout a thing, pretty Mama...."

See this article and over 4300 others on Anna's website here: www.annavonreitz.com

To support this work look for the Donate button on this website.