Put it on your list to go to: www.annavonreitz.com in a couple days and read, "The Delivery System Delivers "Whatever"" --- if you have any questions about the current medical mayhem and insanity.

This will give you a Grandma-sized-up view of the situation, but Facebook would have a meltdown and diarrhea for two weeks afterward, so we can't disturb their delicate little "community" sensitivities, which are tied directly to their shrinking bottom line as millions of us exit and vote against censorship by finding other places to talk to each other.

It's a process like curing hemorrhoids.

Soon, you will have your own such networks and you won't owe Mark Uckerberg or CNN or any of them a dime, because it will be your internet, your computer language, and your own public system on public airwaves worldwide.

And isn't that a nice thought? Keep smiling. Its the one thing THEY hate the most --- to see you happy.
