

All Roads Lead to Oxygen

By Anna Von Reitz

I am rushing to get this done and out on a very busy day because I want it to go viral and I want all of you to know this VERY IMPORTANT conclusion of our research --- there is a cause of every disease and illness, and perhaps even death.

The superficial cause is toxemia -- the build up of toxins in our blood. The actual cause, however, is lack of oxygen and things that screw up our ability to use oxygen at a cellular level. Period.

Read that again. There is a single underlying cause of all disease and that actual cause is: lack of oxygen and things that screw up our ability to use oxygen at the cellular level.

The resulting toxemia kills us, but it is the lack of oxygen that allows and promotes the toxemia.

How do I know this and know it for certain? It's a combination of research studies and clinical results, epidemiology, a long, long trail of things that should be present and aren't, relationships between the causes and effects and the timing of causes and effects over time, research I was party to forty years ago----- and the present virus scare that made me go back and revisit all the above.

Don't be afraid of the corona virus. We know how to beat the virus. Be afraid of the vaccine.

The South Koreans have already beaten the corona virus with simple oxygen therapy --- and that, too, is part and parcel of the story.

That said, let's review the recently accumulated, re-accumulated, and re-integrated facts:

1. Electromagnetic fields are known to adversely affect porphyrins, which are pigment enzymes (special proteins that enable chemical reactions) which means that these proteins are light sensitive. They can "perceive" EM energy, so that is why are impacted by EM fields.
2. The effect of EM fields on these special proteins hobbles their ability to produce "Heme" -- the vital part of hemoglobin that allows it to attach to and carry oxygen throughout the body. A portion of our hemoglobin is disabled outright and a portion is normal and a portion is crippled, but still functioning to a degree.
3. So raw "un-modulated" EM fields, which are what we are bathed in 24/7, inhibit the ability of our blood to carry oxygen to our tissues and cells, which then interferes with everything else.
4. The more we are exposed to high intensity EM, the more severely our blood and its oxygen-carrying capacity is impacted. There is the real danger of 5G and the reason it kills whether it is overtly weaponized or not.

5. This is why chronic diseases are the great scourges of industrialized societies worldwide --- cancer, diabetes, and coronary disease --- were virtually unknown a hundred years ago --- and only became common in tandem with the expansion of the electrical grid. There's your cause and your effect.

6. Cancer is known to shrivel up and die in the presence of oxygen, and if you look a bit deeper into the disease mechanisms of diabetes and coronary and arterial diseases, you will see that lack of oxygen and lack of complete oxidation--- resulting in the build up of toxic waste products--- is central to both those diseases as well.

7. At the same time that EM exposure is wreaking silent havoc with our blood and blood's ability to carry oxygen, oxygen levels in the atmosphere are being depleted at a frightening rapid rate, having lost 5% of the total atmosphere in the past sixty years. This is a double whammy.

8. Not only is our ability to capture and use oxygen being harmed, but there is less oxygen available as a result of deforestation and pollution of the oceans and large fresh water lakes.

9. The fact that South Korea has been able to cure corona virus via the use of simple oxygen therapy simply adds the icing to the cake of conclusions we've drawn here.

10. This also explains why Keshe water (GANS) kills the corona virus and "resets" the EM balance. Go to YouTube now and watch Keshe's DIY called "One Cup, One Life".

Our body's metabolism and immune functions are both crippled by lack of oxygen.

Certain idiot factions have promoted and profited from this circumstance, have obscured and suppressed this information for their own enrichment, and those same elements, including B.Gates, know how to modulate the EM radiation to gain health benefits from it, instead of being harmed by it. But they are sitting mum as stumps and planning to profit from the death and misery of millions of people.

This can only be considered a form of criminal psychopathy.

Especially because EM fields can be modulated at little cost to promote health instead of disease --- if health was the goal of these monsters.

There is an even darker and more sinister reality involved here and it is the research I was involved in at the University of Wisconsin forty years ago that prompts this insight.

At that time, we had the ability to reverse 36 out of 38 basic parameters of aging in rats. We could and did take very elderly rodents, shoot them up with a chemical cocktail, and have them back, zipping around their cages and mazes like youngsters - and that was forty years ago, but two factors eluded us.

The rats all eventually succumbed to toxemia of one kind or another.

Their blood went bad.

Two factors explain why ---- (1) unnatural exposure to un-modulated EM fields in the controlled laboratory conditions, lack of oxygen, leading to incomplete oxidation, and build up of waste products, and (2) lack of biotin, one of the then-barely known or noted B Vitamins.

Biotin cleans up the most dreadfully polluted water --or blood-- and does so in no time, if there is access to oxygen.

What are the odds that B. Gates and their ilk have discovered the secret of "eternal life" short of being throttled by the rest of us?

With access to sufficient oxygen, they avoid all the diseases and problems that plague the rest of the world, and with access to biotin, they have the means to clean up any toxemia that did develop.

Then, indeed, the world would face an overpopulation problem, but not because of natural population expansion. The overpopulation would be driven by these selfish, profit-driven, more-than-half-insane criminally psychopathic creatures not dying at their appointed time.

And they and their kind would eventually proliferate at the expense of the compassionate and sane.
