

Bretton Woods 2?

By Anna Von Reitz

Let's get this straight. There should never have been a Bretton Woods 1.

What came out of Bretton Woods 1 was a total airy-fairy disaster, an economic plan and theory so flawed that a zombie with an I.Q. of 10 would give it a thumbs down.

The centerpiece of Bretton Woods 1 was the idea that if we can keep the world economy constantly expanding at a given rate per capita we will never have to pay our debts. Never. Ever.

Isn't that just a nice example of "sophistication" ---- ? And I do not mean that as a compliment.

It's also emblematic of a bizarre kind of out-of-touch-with-reality Wishful Thinking that seemed to invade the planet after the hostilities of the Second World War.

Anything seemed possible --- apparently even such known impossibilities as a constantly expanding world economy.

Big surprise. It didn't work.

The world economy has sputtered along as it always has, and the weight of the first Bretton Woods Conference has fallen on America and we have taken it in the shorts for every discrepancy between Keynes' "Ideal World" and actual fact ever since, and now, we have Bretton Woods 2, which if possible, is even worse.

Remember that I told you the plan of the Vermin a hundred and twenty years ago was to force us all to use fiat currencies, inflate them so as to make them worthless and meanwhile collect all the gold, silver, and platinum reserves in one huge stockpile, so that the Rats could sell it all back to the grandsons and granddaughters of the people they stole it from? At a vastly inflated profit?

Well, that is in fact what they are still pushing for.

Thanks to Obummer and Biden and Company signing off on 25,000 trillion "dollars" in debt cast as "US Treasury Notes" the last viable fiat currency was tanked --- with or without the Midterm Election results.

We have repudiated any suggestion that their actions pertain to us or any American or any "United States" related to us, and we have invited all their Creditors to collect from them directly. Semantics being what they are, there are bound to be misunderstandings.

I keep remembering Hillary Clinton saying, "If he [Donald Trump] gets elected, we will all hang!" It's the only cheerful thought in all of this. I keep imagining the criminals in bright orange, hand-cuffed, awaiting the gallows.

Bretton Woods 2 produced two answers to the dilemma the Fraud Artists have created: (1) Depopulation of the Earth (not the first time this has happened) down to a tiny fraction of the current population, so as to "collapse the debt pressure"--- which is in fact just killing off one's Priority Creditors, as I have also described, and (2) Arbitrarily setting the "value" of an ounce of gold at $25,000 per ounce.

Considering that the Vermin stole most of this gold and paid around $40 per ounce for the bulk of the remainder I will leave it to you to do the math and figure out what percentage of profit they are anticipating.

As one Bretton Woods 2 Attendee snickered, "It's going to be a "killing" either way!"

We have a different plan and vision for the world. If you despised Bretton Woods 1 and hate Bretton Woods 2, it's time to be pro-active.

Our government hasn't been paid for all the American soldiers who were used as mercenaries and sent out to fight under Color of Law, having been told plenty of Big, Fat Lies on their way to the Front of two World Wars and endless other wars and conflicts. I think it's time to present our bill to the schemers responsible for all this --- $250 trillion per life lost under such conditions sounds about right, doesn't it? Who knows? With a push it might be enough to buy some comforts and consolations for all those left behind.

Paid in gold.
