

Civil is Not Civilian - A Short Explanation of Corporate Feudalism

By Anna Von Reitz

Many people make references to the "civil government" without realizing that the "civil government" is not the civilian government.

"Civil" refers to the Municipal Government --- and ultimately, to the Municipal Government of Rome, "The" City. Rome is unique in the history of the world and its "Empire of the City" has spanned the centuries in a single leap from 700 BC to the present virtually unaltered in form. It is still an all-embracing Municipal Government, and this is the form of the "Holy Roman Empire".

Voltaire once quipped that the Holy Roman Empire was "not holy, not Roman, and not an empire" --- and in part, I wholeheartedly agree; but in another sense, it very much is an empire that has used the Church as a storefront, used Rome as a base of operations, and which now encircles the globe in a python-like grasp of interlocking trust directorates and commercial corporate interests.

When our country was founded a little over two hundred years ago, commercial corporations were somewhat an oddity. Only a few industries employed commercial corporations, notably shipping and trading companies, banks, fledgling insurance companies, trade guilds (unions), and government-to-government operations.

There were no stock exchanges. No stock market. No publicly traded companies. No SEC. No DTTC. No Corporations Company of America. No massive insurance funds. No trading in bonds, except sovereign bonds between governments. The explosive growth in all these areas and the development of all these corporate institutions was fueled by the use of "commercial paper" as a money substitute.

And that, in turn, was fueled by the spread of the Municipal Government of Rome and the standardization of shipping lanes, postal services, trade policies, post roads, communications systems, expansion of the use of insurance and bottomry bonds in shipping, the advent of pension programs, the proliferation of commercial patent processes under government protection, international copyrights and trademarks also protected by governments, and what has developed into the modern Uniform Commercial Code.

In a relatively short period of time, "commerce" has exploded onto the world stage and guided by the single-minded demand for profit, has fueled a new brand of Corporate Feudalism, clearly visible in the economic polarizations that commerce has created.

Along with the explosive growth created by institutionalized gambling (insurance, commodities markets, stock exchanges, investment and brokerage houses, investment banking, bond markets, etc. are all forms of institutionalized and increasingly deregulated gambling) came another "push" to bulk up the commercial markets --- the securitization, bonding, and enfranchisement of practically everyone and everything on earth.

Commerce, by definition, is business conducted between two incorporated entities, and incorporated entities have to be sponsored and chartered by governments or enfranchised by other corporations that are sponsored by governments. All incorporated entities are "unnatural" and consist of total legal fictions, businesses created by businesses, corporations created by other corporations, and totally cut off from the realm of physical reality.

To funnel this explosive growth and keep the momentum going and to benefit themselves, the promoters of the whole realm of commerce --- the Municipal Government of Rome operated by the Roman Pontiffs -- approved the securitization, bonding, and enfranchisement of living people, and thereby reduced men to things --- commodities to be traded, corporations to be moved about and controlled and held to account like any other corporations, little bricks in the vast edifice that the Civil Municipal Government has been building.

The big problem with the Civil Government is that it is all built on lies of one kind or another, and on enslavement of Mankind by networks of bullies and thieves in nice suits--- which leads inexorably back to the evils of Robber Barons and racketeering "for the king" however "the king" may be defined, and to a brutal new kind of industrialized and computerized Feudalism in which we all serve corporations instead of corporations serving us.

And that is, in part, what we come to address as we gather ourselves together in Faith Communities and Patriot Groups and State Assemblies and wherever living men gather to contemplate the circumstance.

It is grossly unlawful to securitize living men as commodities and also unlawful to subject them to bondage, yet the perpetrators have sought to get around this by legal chicanery ---kidnapping living men from their natural estate on the land and soil of their respective countries and shanghai-ing us on paper first into the international Jurisdiction of the Sea, and next into the foreign realm of the international Jurisdiction of the Air--- and unlawfully converting our names into the names of corporations.

This is a crime known as "personage" and it has been rampantly practiced by the governments of the western world since the 1940's, right under the noses of the Popes and Prelates, the Justices and Politicians, the Generals and the Admirals responsible for protecting us.

We can only conclude that at least a very substantial part of all that comprises world government is criminal in nature, and that the institutional and legal and Public Law safeguards have failed from the Pope, who is supposed to liquidate corporations caught in unlawful activities, on down to local "law enforcement" agencies which have failed to enforce the Public Law.

Thus, again, the only strength is in public awareness and public action to put things back in order before a few madmen like George Soros create Hell on Earth instead of what is meant to be -- a Heaven on Earth.

Millions of Americans have to be awakened to the clear and present danger that our own runaway military and federal civilian subcontractors have presented to us and to the rest of the world.

Everyone needs to reclaim their own good name and estate as living people and in this country, that means to "return" from any presumption of "US Citizenship" and also placing one's political status firmly on the Public Records of these private corporations as being American State Nationals and/or American State Citizens.

All this corporate hanky-panky needs to evaporate like mist on a summer morning. Let this outrageous criminality be nullified as the fraud that it is, and let all the assets be returned free and clear -- as the actual Public Law requires.
