

The Fetid Stench From Benghazi

By Anna Von Reitz

I wept in anger when General Carter Ham was "arrested" by his sneaky little gobber-faced "UN Shadow" and removed from command for trying to rescue Ambassador Stevens and the other brave men at the compound in Benghazi.

I knew for sure that those men --- including General Ham --- had been grossly betrayed.

And they were betrayed, all of them, those who were killed by the mob and those who were supposed to rescue them, by some grimy little criminals in political offices--- criminals who have yet to face justice.

For all of those who have wondered -- WTF happened at Benghazi? --- here it is, with thanks to Benjamin for reminding me:
