

Global. Collateral. Accounts.

By Anna Von Reitz

In this world, you have to pay close attention to words. Very close.

Take a look at the title of this article. What do you see?

Three words: global, collateral, and accounts.

What do those words imply? Global = worldwide, planetary, jurisdiction of the air, the realm of ideas and intellectual property. Collateral = things of value put at risk as assets justifying debt. Accounts = a plus and minus ledgering system keeping track of something--- could be money, could be credits, could be number of oranges in a warehouse.

String them all together and what have you got? Global Collateral Accounts. An accounting system that is global in nature, keeping track of unspecified assets being used as collateral.

You have just described the B.E.A.S.T. and --- though some people would give you the deliberate impression that the Global Collateral Accounts are stockpiles of gold amassed in China, the Philippines, and elsewhere---- that isn't really the case.

You and everything you own or have an interest in constitute the "collateral" in the B.E.A.S.T. system.

Your labor, your biological "products" including organs and children and blood, your home, your land, your businesses, your country, your culture, your art and artifacts, all the natural and human resources you can think of, have all been neatly cataloged, described, copyrighted for the benefit of corporations, and used as collateral backing the debts of these same corporations.

In the old feudal system, serfs were owned by kings and countries. In the new feudal system, serfs are owned by presidents and corporations. Nothing has changed. The criminals responsible are simply sleeker and more diplomatic, more secretive, and far more automated.

It all comes down to the same thing--- a form of government in which the people are ruthlessly preyed upon instead of being protected and served, a variety of ancient tribal thuggery going back to the days of the cavemen, rulership achieved by force and abuse of power, glorifying the few via the misery and enslavement of the many.

Our circumstance would be easy to recognize if we were honest, but we have been trained since babyhood not to face unpleasant things like death, slavery, meaningless drudgery, and criminals in our midst.

Still, more and more, the Truth becomes self-evident. It shows up at the gas pump, when you realize that a large part of the price per gallon is taxes imposed by the “government”. It shows up every April 15, when the “government” takes between 40% and 80% of your earnings.

It shows up when the “government” tells you that you have to vaccinate your children with poisons, have to pay off a mortgage that the “government” owes before you can own land that is otherwise yours, have to use private bank script instead of money. Have to, have to, have to.....

The fact is that the most abused serfs during the Middle Ages gave up 20% of their labor and substance to the government every year. We are giving the B.E.A.S.T a hundred percent of everything for life. We are “presumed” to have donated it all, usually within hours of birth.

And when someone wakes up and says, “No!” --- what happens?

The zombies in charge of this system of things can’t hear you. They just plod relentlessly, mindlessly onward, shake their heads as if plain English had suddenly become gibberish, and continue filing and stamping and processing, processing, processing.

Dear hearts, those things you think of as “Social Security Numbers” are numbers assigned to prisoners, just like in the concentration camps of Nazi Germany. Those NAMES that you see on every bill and account statement? Those are charges against your ESTATE or a PUBLIC UTILITY named after you. You no longer have an identity as a living being. You are now considered a PERSON--- a dead corporate franchise literally belonging to a larger corporate franchise that belongs to a still larger corporate franchise.

And sitting at the top of this pile of plunder and presumption is the Holy See. It is very evident now that the “Fourth Reich” of the Holy Roman Empire has nearly succeeded in its mad quest to own and dominate and rule the entire world. It’s center of operations has been found buried deep in the heart of the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg.

And as Voltaire said, it is neither “holy” nor “Roman” nor an “empire”. It’s a gigantic crime syndicate, nothing more or less, operating under color of law and a veil of propriety.

It’s important to realize that you and your family are the collateral in this system. You have been pledged as assets. Of course, those doing all this pledging in your behalf didn’t bother to tell you this. You might have objected, as we do now.

You might have awakened and said, “All of this is nothing but automated fraud and lies!”

And then what?

These dead things, these corporations, have no right to exist. In fact, their existence is predicated on them operating lawfully according to the Public Law, not according to some private, corporate law in which the criminals dictate their own rules.

Who is responsible for this Mess? Ultimately, the Roman Catholic Church.

The Roman Curia created (out of thin air) all the various kinds of corporations infesting our world--- trusts, cooperatives, foundations, c-corps, s-corps, b-corps, limited liability partnerships--- you name it, and they defined and ordered it, by fiat, like acts of black magic, summoning these forms of organizations into the world, giving them special roles and privileges, defining what they can and cannot do.

And the Holy See--- while remaining studiously unincorporated itself--- has used these arbitrarily bestowed privileges as bait, encouraging all the other governments of the world to incorporate themselves, which has left the Holy See in control of everything. Almost.

Iran, North Korea, and The United States of America (which just happens to own everything as a result of being used as a convenient storage facility and base of operations for this madness) are unincorporated and not under the control of the Holy See. All around the world, other governments are waking up, too. Lions and tigers and bears! Oh, my!

Corporations have no sovereignty. Corporations have no life. It is entirely permissible to rape, kill, and plunder corporations. And because you have been "redefined" as a corporate franchise since infancy, the madmen responsible for Agenda 21 now think that they can just arbitrarily kill nine out of ten of you, and face no eternal consequences. They think they can kill CHINA and JAPAN and the UNITED KINGDOM, too.

Right.

It seems that every day I get a dozen emails saying that this is the latest "Intel" and instead, it is all just a bunch of gossip and hearsay about this faction or that, this government or that government, one group of thugs versus another. That is not what this is all really about.

This is a struggle for your mind, for your ability to think, for your ability to recognize what is real and what isn't real. Let's get a guess and a grip? Show me "PepsiCo" or "GM". Right now. In the flesh.

These things don't exist, and yet they are claiming to own you as chattel. That should be alarming enough, but beyond that, you need to recognize that what the perpetrators of this scheme are really aiming at is the reinstatement of the ancient feudal system --- only instead of belonging to a king and a kingdom, they would have you belong to a corporation and be bought and sold and traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Time to object in the most explicit terms possible, to as many officials as possible.
