

Me and YouTube and Jerry Day

By Anna Von Reitz

I have a confession.

I don't watch many YouTube videos. Even those recommended by friends get screened pretty rigorously.

YouTube, in my opinion, is a LOT better than broadcast television, more varied, more fun, more real--- and yet, I don't watch much of that, either.

Why?

Because most YouTube videos are long, drawn-out, arcane, boring, and could easily condense their actual content into 5 or 10 minute presentations instead of the two hour long self-promotion extravaganzas that are all too common.

Today I found a very happy exception: Jerry Day.

He packed more useful, factual, actual information into just a few minutes than most Freedom Gurus offer up in days worth of zombie-like screen staring.

Jerry Day packs it in, pulls no punches, and lays it out. I could have kissed him for his presentation titled, "Do You Know How Much Tax You Pay?"

I could have (and would have) given him a standing ovation for "God, Money, and Lies"--- if he had been present to see the old lady clapping and stomping her feet.

If you are going to spend time watching YouTube presentations --- I can recommend that you watch Jerry Day. He won't waste your precious time.

Anna

Some examples on YouTube: Pay special attention to the last one.

Do You Know How Much Tax You Pay? <https://youtu.be/rsoF13FLBWw>

God, Money, and Lies <https://youtu.be/6Uyif8Z7x2Q>

The Power of Paper <https://youtu.be/kEwxYhIIaI0>

Secrets of the Slave State https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=DVq\_fIZeO00&feature=youtu.be

Escaping the Traps of Corporate Government <https://youtu.be/UCgs7IDnynI>