

Granna Bytes: The Mirror

By Anna Von Reitz

Everyone reading this is meant to be, and is designed to be, a caretaker of the Earth.

One of your hidden gifts is the ability to stop storms. The trillions of volts of electricity bound in your body can be used in ways you don't yet imagine, but right here, right now, you can stop the geoengineered storm that is bearing down on the American Southeast again.

North Carolina is again being targeted, just as it was during Hurricane Helene.

Yeshuah demonstrated this ability when he calmed the storm on Lake Galilee by simply commanding it, "Be still."

He also told his Followers that they would perform great miracles.

So this is not heebie-jeebie stuff. It's part of your heritage, part of your inherent capabilities, to be able to stop and/or redirect storms.

How can you help limit and even stop the horrific winter storm that is set to unleash all across the American Midwest and especially the Southeast and Eastern Seaboard?

Center yourself.

You know what we mean.

Withdraw your energy back to your center, your heart. Take a minute or three or however long it takes to draw your scattered energy back into your body. Once you think of it as bringing your extended energy back, you will find that you are able to do this, and feel it, too.

When your energy centers back to your heart, it's like loading a gun. It's concentrating your energy and ordering it in a way so that it can be directed in the same way that a laser beam can be aimed.

Now, envision the map of The United States and the area slated to be impacted by this once-in-500-years blizzard --- all across the nation from South Dakota to the middle of Texas, then eastward through the American Southeast, and up the Eastern Seaboard.

Put your hands up, palms facing forward, as if you were pushing against an invisible wall.

Now, thinking of this whole large area, imagine a giant shining silver blanket, like silver tin foil, or a survival blanket, being draped over it, forming a smooth mirror-like surface over these states.

This forms a reflective barrier in the atmosphere that repels the directed energy that is being used to generate this storm.

This ability transcends time and space. You don't have to be in the affected space to have impact.

Each one of you is individually able to stop this engineered storm.

So if even one of us achieves the correct energy transmission frequency and acts with the intent to stop the storm, the storm will immediately dissipate and move out to sea, or stay at sea, and harmlessly dissipate.

However we wish it to moderate, it will moderate. If we say, "Be still." it will be still. If we say, "Warm your breath." the temperature will warm. If we say, "Avoid the land." it will stay at sea or move away over the sea.

There are many of us who are competent to target the right frequency range, and others who are learning, who can come close. Taken together, we can save our country from experiencing the worst of this bad storm, and we can prevent future violent weather events.

Put an end to all their trillions of dollars wasted on weaponizing the jet stream. Take your time, follow the steps -- and then, just like a General having commanded your troops, turn your attention to other things. Don't worry about it or keep checking on it.

Just know that as you have spoken it, aloud, it will happen.

Granna

See this article and over 5700 others on Anna's website here: www.annavonreitz.com
To support this work look for the Donate button on this website.